Birdies to Fall at Brook-Lea Today

They're Not Golf Birds,
Just Clay Pigeon Variety

The guns will blaze at Brook-Lea Country Club this morning at nine o'clock, with 10-men teams from the Rochester Gun Club, Country Club of Rochester and the home club scheduled to pepper away at the clay pigeons. There will also be a five turkey shoot, the committee in charge reports.

Among the contestants are Dick Clarke, Seth Widener, Van Alstyne, Benjamin, St. John and George Steele. Providing a humorous note, Ed Wirth, Al Vosburg, Charlie Chase, George Sullivan and Jack Carritt have made side bets in a 10-bird shoot against Lou Smith, Art Weller, Don Campbell, Ray Fisher and Doctor Long. Several women shots will also try their hand.

Following the shoot, dinner will be served at the club from 1 to 3 p. m.

'Perfect' Pro Golfer of District Would Make Old Man Par Quiver and Shake

CLARENCE DOSER CHARLEY MCKENNA FRANK KREIGER

NED MCKENNA GEORGE CHRIST RAY FELLER

G. CHRIST + DOSER?
FELLER + MCKENNA?
MCKENNA + KREIGER?

Golf's paid-to-play brigade in Rochester, so good it virtually monopolizes achievements of the Western New York P. G. A., would make a fair to middling Perfect Golfer if their individual virtues were grouped in one mythical, magnificent figure. Such an utopian creature would batter par into a shameful farce, make the birdies chirp with deafening glee and bring that lonesome dream—the eagle—into constant appearance. Statisticians in the Sports Department estimate Bobby Jones course at Augusta would be ripped to shreds and trampled in the dust of booming drives, sipping irons and plunking putts were the perfect Rochester pro to play there. It's just a mid-winter day dream.

Rochester Pro Golfers Have Their Pet Clubs, and Oh Man, How They Use Them!

Christ, Using Walt Hagen Putter, Quite Uncanny About Greens

By JACK TUCKER

At risk of incurring an amused, tongue-in-the-cheek toleration from our professional golfing gentleman, I herewith assume a stuffed-shirt attitude and decide that:

1. George Christ is the best putter in Rochester. 2. George Christ is one of the best putters in the country. 3. George Christ is the best putter I have ever seen.

When George was a diligent little boy, wore short pants and went to school, he did not shoot as many rubber bands at other little boys as other little boys shot at him. Instead he paid attention to his geometry lessons. You remember? "A straight line" is the shortest distance between two points."

George has nourished that idea considerably on the putting greens at the Country Club of Rochester. No detours. Just straight into the cup.

This taciturn, hard-bitten, unexcitable professional has a quaint and somewhat devastating formula for short putts. Instead of messing around with the Bill Meihorn "3-way principle," he smacks that ball with fearful force at the back of the rim, eyes it venomously as it briskly pops up in the air, then with an irritatingly "I-knew-it-was-in-all-the-time" demeanor he plucks it out of the cup.

Uses Hagen's Putter

Uses Hagen's Putter
Christ has not achieved his crisp technique without long practise-hours of meticulous ironing out of little faults. He uses a mallet-headed type of putter, the very same weapon which Walter Hagen used in winning his first U. S. Open championship. Hagen gave it to Christ when he left the Country Club.

George has played in so many national, sectional and winter tournaments I will not bother to mention them, with the exception that one year he was a quarter-finalist in the National P. G. A., considered the toughest of all to win.

GUN CLUB HOST SUNDAY IN 2ND TRI-CLUB TILT

Brook-Lea Is Minus Services of Ace, George Steele

Facing a 14-shot deficit, Brook-Lea Country Club's five-man team of clay pigeon shots will be minus the services of their ace, George R. Steele, Sunday morning when the second shoot for the John Hill Kitchen Cup gets under way at 9 o'clock. Rochester Gun Club, whose team won the first shoot Jan. 14, will be host.

The Country Club of Rochester team, third of the contending groups, scored 196 hits in the first shoot and is 28 shots behind. Steele was high man in that shoot, knocking down 49 of 50 birds.

The Gun Club team is composed mostly of Community Gun Club shots and is almost certain to walk away with the second shoot, their ability on a golf course notwithstanding. To get to the scene of Sunday's shoot, guests can go out Monroe Avenue to Edgewood, then turn right to arrive at the Gun Club's grounds on the north side of the canal.

Final Club Shoot Listed for Sunday

Three Rivals Will Meet at Country Club Layout

The last shoot of the three-way club match between the Rochester Country Club, the Brook-Lea Club, Country Club of Rochester, the Brook-Lea Country Club and the Rochester Gun Club will be held Sunday, Feb. 10 at the Country Club of Rochester grounds.

The event will start at 10 o'clock in the morning and indications point to a record turnout.

Adler's Election Surprise

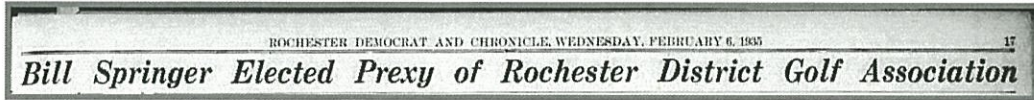

The election of Bob Adler as treasurer was probably a surprise, but a pleasant one. It is the first real concession to the city's younger element, though Bob Reilly, retiring secretary, is not many years older.

Adler, graduate of Yale University and semi-finalist in the State Amateur at Oak Hill four years ago, comes from a golfing family. His father, Mortimer Adler, is one of Irondequoit's most enthusiastic players, as are Mrs. Adler and two daughters, Ruth and Frances. Though he played little golf last season, Adler unquestionably will be a serious contender in 1935.

President Springer, in going over the 1934 financial statement, showed the association's funds are in good condition. This has been achieved in the face of losses on all three District tournaments last year. Nearly $500 was spent on prizes, it being the feeling of the retiring officers that there was no logic in merely letting money stay in the treasury.

A suggestion by Johnny McGrath, Durand-Eastman pro and Western New York P. G. A. member, that a pro-amateur event be held met general approval and was tabled pending action of a tournament committee to be appointed.

Present at the meeting were Ben A. Heughess, Oak Hill; Robert Reilly, representing Lakeshore; Gay Lewis, Locust Hill; Ralph Bickford, Monroe; Ray Milow, Oak Hill; Clint Patchem, Durand-Eastman; Eddie Randall, Genesee; Harold Colburn, Brook-Lea; Warren Gager, Canandaigua; Robert Adler, Irondequoit; President Springer, Ridgmont; Harry Crittenden, Country Club, and Jimmy Weldon, Oak Hill.

CRITTENDEN AND ADLER LAND POSTS

Ridgemont Is Awarded District Tourney For July 26-28

JACK TUCKER

W. A. (Bill) Springer of Ridgemont Golf Club, for many years one of Rochester's most ardent and popular golfers, last night was elected president of the Rochester District Golf Association over his protests he would not again run for office. He succeeds Ben A. Henghes of Oak Hill.

Election of the energetic Ridgemont came at the annual meeting of the association at the Rochester Club. He had been treasurer for three years.

Henry L. Crittenden of the Country Club of Rochester was elected vicepresident, and Robert M. Adler of Irondequoit was elected treasurer.

Ridgemont, the new prexy's home club, was awarded the 1935 District championship for July 26-28. The dates were considered practically a certainty, and check-up this morning was to find definitely if any tourney date would conflict. Any date shift will be immediate, not later.

Junior Play in August

Junior Play in August

The District Junior Championship will be contested the latter part of August, but the course was not decided upon. Other tournaments will be arranged later. It is expected one event will be held at an out-of-town club, probably Newark.

President Springer announced the entrance fee for the District championship would "undoubtedly be cut from $5 to $3." It was pointed out that the $5 last September at Monroe Golf Club covered also the cost of a clam bake.

Last night's meeting was considered the most important since the association's inception, and certainly had aroused more interest. Every club in the association, with the single exception of Midvale, was represented. Among the delegates was Warren Gager of Canandaigua, whose club several times has furnished entries in District activities.

Election of Springer should be a popular one. He is one of the city's real veterans, and dates his golf back to the "old" days at Genesee Valley Park, when athletes delighted in honking raucously at the peculiar antics of knickered gentlemen batting a silly ball.

He is an oldtime member of the Genesee Golf Club, which has given so many golfers to Rochester's larger golf clubs. Springer won his share of tournaments at the Genesee Club, and at Ridgemont, where he became a member when the Ridge Road layout was opened, he is exceptionally active. Bill has an 11 handicap, or at least he did have.

Harry Crittenden, new vice-president, is an excellent golfer and last year went to the semi-finals of the District Championship, losing to Bill Chapin, the younger, in a close match. Especially of recent years he has improved his game to a point where, despite lack of weight, he is considered a tough opponent in any tournament in this section. He has been a member of the Country Club many years.

Settle Date For District Golf Tourney

The championship of the Rochester District Golf Association will definitely be contested July 26 to 28 at Ridgmont Golf Club, it was stated yesterday by President Bill Springer. Added check on tournament dates was necessary following the annual meeting Tuesday night.

"If anybody else wants to have a tournament now, it will have to be some other time than the District dates," he said.

The new prexy appointed Jimmy Weldon of Oak Hill head of the tournament committee, an appointment which probably will meet with general satisfaction.

Weldon, a real golf veteran and exceptionally popular, has had considerable experience in the rather thankless but meticulous matter of figuring out a tournament schedule. More than 20 years ago he played golf at Genesee Valley Park, along with brothers McKenna, Nagell and others who later turned professional.

Weldon was the first champion of the RDGA when the event was contested at the Country Club of Rochester. He removed to Boston for a few years, then returned to Rochester a year or so ago.

Picture Contest Will Enliven League Fete

A wide variety of entertainment is being planned for a party to be held by the Junior League Monday afternoon at the Country Club of Rochester. There will be skiing, skating and tobogganing and for those who are less active in their outdoor sports, sleighriding.

Inside the club, bridge will claim most of the attention. Mrs. Alexander Beach is in charge of this phase of the program. At any or all of these activities cameras will be much in evidence, for a prize will be offered the member taking the best picture at the party, the winning photograph to be later reproduced in the Junior League magazine.

Tea will be served late in the afternoon.

Country Club Plans Teas

Tea will be served every Sunday afternoon from 5 to 6 in the Country Club of Rochester living room.

Genesee Pro Set to Begin 13th Season

George Collins Started
Links Career as Caddy
At Country Club

By JACK TUCKER

Known personally to more Rochester golf players than any other professional in this district, George C. (for convenience) Collins, who used to work in his father's Pittsford blacksmith shop, starts his 13th year this spring at Genesee Valley Park.

The earnest little boy who started to caddy at the age of six at the Country Club of Rochester—and got the staggering sum of 12 cents for his perspiring efforts—has grown up. He's 35 now, married, and has two little girls.

One hesitates to describe a man like Collins without telling, first of all, of his utter spirit of kindness and good will. It is difficult to imagine any man in the world holding a grudge against him, or disliking him.

Let me go back ten years, to a brisk autumn day at the old Oak Hill Country Club, now possessed and occupied by the University of Rochester.

I was 16 years old, a stranger in a strange city, wondering who would bother to play golf with me. Hardly knowing me at all, Good

Country Club Plans Anniversary Party

Outstanding in importance in the social events of the week will be the dinner dance Tuesday evening to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the founding of the Country Club of Rochester.

Many parties are being arranged for the affair. Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood W. Smith of Barrington Street will entertain in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hooker Gordon Jr. of Oliver Street.

Among those who are planning to attend on a "Dutch treat" party are: Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Briggs of Pittsford, Mr. and Mrs. Alan A. Cook of Culver Road, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hawks of East Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. John P. Day of Barrington Street, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Fishback of Council Rock Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Kidd Jr., of Park Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Sibley of Ambassador Drive; Dr. and Mrs. David A. Haller of Park Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Townson of Douglas Road; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Lindsay of Elmwood Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Wendell J. Curtis Jr. of Greenfield Lane; Kenneth B. Keating of Clover Street; Mrs. Richard M. Harris of Oxford Street and William B. Lee of Barrington Street.

Gasparilla Open Entries Continue to Come in Here

Fourteen more entries for the Gasparilla Open Golf Tournament which begins Saturday morning at Palma Ceia were received today by officials of the event, bringing the total definitely in the competition to more than 70.

Latest to enter are Leo R. Mallory, Weeburn Country Club, Norton, Conn.; Sal Di Bono, Bonny Briar Country Club, Larchmont, N. Y.; G. W. Hichney, Atlantic City Country Club, Atlantic City, N. J.; John Gaulldet, Shawnee, Pa.; George Christ, Rochester Country Club, Rochester, N. Y.; Clarence Doser, Lake Shore Country Club, Rochester, N. Y.; Vincent Eldred, Highland Country Club, Bellvue, Pa.; Mike Ondo, Brooksville; Andrew Ponzle, Round Hill Country Club, Greenwich, Conn.; Victor Brook, Winter Haven; John Hoctor, Locust Grove Country Club, Paterson, N. J.; Russell Hale, Commonwealth Club, Newton, Mass.; John Shinkomis, Andover Club, Andover, Mass.; A. R. Guay, Laconia Club, Laconia, N. H.

Arrive Thursday.

Additional entries are expected in every mail.

The majority of the touring professionals who left Phoenix, Ariz., Monday are expected to arrive here Thursday for practice rounds. It will be known definitely then just how many of the caravan will seek the $3,000 prize money of the Gasparilla.

Tournament officials today awaited word whether Col. H. L. Doherty, of the Miami-Biltmore Hotel, will allow Paul Runyan, first winner of the Gasparilla and a favorite with fans here, to compete. Runyan is in the employ of the Miami-Biltmore and he has been denied permission to play here. But local officials have contacted Col. Doherty and his decision is expected probably late this afternoon.

There also is a possibility that Willie MacFarlane, who has been a prominent figure in Gasparilla tourneys of the past, may not take part because of an attack of rheumatism.

But the field will be as attractive as ever with Walter Hagen leading the veterans and Harold McSpaden, young Kansas City pro who won most money during the California winter play, heading the youngsters.

Shute to Return.

Denny Shute, who covered the 72 holes last year in 277 to tie Horton Smith, and who finally won the title for the second straight time by beating Smith in the play-off with a par 70 to Smith's 72, will return here a favorite.

Junior Leaguers See the Birdie in Picture Contest

Winter sports, which were to be the piece de resistance at the Junior League party yesterday at the Country Club of Rochester, just weren't possible, but some of the members went through the motions anyway to aid their friends who were competing in the photography contest. Mrs. Alexander Beach is saying 'look pleasant please' to Miss Helen Little, between the sleigh shafts, coolie fashion, and Miss Mary Wolcott and Mrs. Allen Mills in the sleigh.

Airplanes for Robbie

It is with a tinge of embarrassment that Clarence Robinson, who operates a flying service at Municipal Airport, recalls his humbling experience on a golf course . . . Robbie had never played the silly game until his mother, Mrs. Clarence Robinson, who is pretty fair at it, insisted he play around with her . . . which he did, accumulating an alarming total at the Country Club of Rochester which he believes stands for an all-time high to this day . . . "I prefer flying," said Mr. Robinson explosively. "You don't get laughed at."

Hagen Leads Clarence Doser by 2 Shots in $3,000 Gasparilla Golf Open

LAKE SHORE PRO SCORES HOT 66 CARD

'The Haig' Out in Front With 135—G. Christ Has 142 Score

Palma Ceia Course Tampa, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Walter Hagen, Detroit veteran, held a two-stroke lead over the field at the end of the 36 hole qualifying round in the $3,000 Gasparilla open here today, with a 135 card.

He posted a card of 35-36—71 today, a stroke over par and seven strokes over his score in the first round.

Clarence Doser, of the Lake Shore Country Club, Rochester, was in second place with 71-34-32-68—137. Billie Burke, former United States open champion from Belleair, Fla., was third with 68-33-38-71—139.

George Bolesta, 17-year old Tampa youth, set a competitive amateur record here by posting a card of 34-34—68 today which with his 72 of the previous day gave him a 36 hole total of 140. He led the amateurs.

The 64 low qualifiers play 36 holes of medal golf tomorrow for the title which Denny Shute, former British open champion, won the past two years through play off ties.

Tied with Bolesta for fourth place with totals of 140 were Gene Kunes, of Hollywood, Fla., Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. Y., Jules Huot of Quebec, and Henry Picard of Hershey, Penna.

In fifth place were Ky Laffoon of Chicago, Johnny Revolva of Tripoli, Wis., and Ed Brook, former Tampan registered from Bartow, with 141's.

Qualified in the sixth slot were Bracketed in the sixth slot were "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, of Louisville, Ky., Denny Shute, the defending Gasparilla champion, George Christ of Rochester, John Golden, of Noroton, Conn., and Jimmy Rines of Timber Point, N. J., with totals of 142.

A score of 152 for the 36 holes was good enough to qualify for today's 36 hole finals and four were tied with this figure, meaning that a field of 63 pros, instead of 60, will tee off tomorrow morning. Scores:

OAK HILL HOST TO SIX TEAMS IN TRAP SHOOT

Sunday's Event Biggest Held in Rochester This Season

Oak Hill Country Club, where trap-shooting has just been inaugurated, is doing well already. Sunday the club will entertain six groups in the biggest shoot Rochester has had this season.

Compelling teams are from the Country Club of Rochester, Monroe Golf Club, Brook-Lea Country Club, Rochester Gun Club, Community Gun Club and the home forces.

No restrictions keep a team's limit down. Any number can fire away at the clay pigeons, the five highest scorers from each squad to count. Oak Hill is well equipped to handle what is expected to be a colorfully big turnout.

Trap and target shooting has come ahead fast this winter among the golf clubs, and a number of the turf-manglers can handle themselves respectably with the guns. Principal of the golfer-shooters is George Steele of Brook-Lea, where the sport has become most popular.

In prior shoots this season, Community Club gunners excelled, as was expected, but at no time did its team walk away with events.

Retires from Store

JESSE W. LINDSAY

JESSE LINDSAY RESIGNS FROM POST IN STORE

Vicepresident Last of Family Active as Merchant

Jesse W. Lindsay, for many years first vicepresident of Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Company department store, has resigned from active participation in the business, it was announced last night.

Mr. Lindsay's intention to retire from the business was announced to the store's executive committee on Monday, but many of his associates in the business did not learn of the action until late yesterday. The announcement came as a profound surprise.

Mr. Lindsay himself, reputed to be the largest individual stockholder in the store, had planned a retirement from active business for some time, it was said. His home is at 1152 East Avenue.

His action takes the last member of the Lindsay family from active participation in the store's affairs.

Mr. Lindsay is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. He is also a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Country Club of Rochester, Seneca Valley Club, Rochester Historical Society, Society of the Seneca and of the Williams College Alumni Club.

Ruby Keeler Sets Hollywood Agog over Her Golfing Game

Press Agent Waxes Strong In Hyperbole Describing Movie Star's Ability

By JACK TUCKER

Hollywood, the incredible land of dazzling dames, honeyed heroes and wordy claptrap, also breeds golfers—and, hey hey, what golfers!

Only the other day our Hollywood man—sure, we got one; he works for us and a few thousand other newspapers—sent us a really impressive picture of Miss Ruby Keeler who, it develops, is something of a wow at the game of golf. So this guy says, anyway.

"Miss Keeler," he writes with admirable restraint, "is one of the best golfers in Hollywood. She shoots in the low 80's. In fact, she is probably one of the best woman golfers along the coast."

Well, well. So Ruby shoots in the low 80's, does she? Come, come, why hold back?

We know darned well she also dashes off a novel or two between pictures, gives Helen Wills Moody pointers when Helen loses her touch and has "Babe" Didrickson scared to death.

That's the trouble with the Hollywood press agent boys. They're always holding back. Won't come right out and admit that Ruby could probably beat Virginia Van Wie if she put her mind to it. Where, in short, has Ruby been hiding all this time? In behalf of the women golfers of America I demand that Ruby come forth and make the feminine tournaments worthwhile.

Enter Mr. Fields

As a sort of antidote after Ruby there is Mr. W. C. Fields, the eminent ex-tramp, honky-tonk juggler and world traveler who, after years of faithful training on the links, has gotten to the point where he consistently plays between 85 and 125.

"My golf," says Mr. Fields simply, "is like the segonku. Very odiferous." The segonku, it turns out, being another name for a skunk.

Mr. Fields, it can safely be stated, probably has done more for cinema golf than anyone else on the stage or screen. Those fortunates who have witnessed his exceedingly uproarious golf act without laughing out loud are . . . well, W. C. is a honey, anyway.

It was Mr. Fields, it may be recalled, who claims to have originated the happy idea of throwing his caddy into a pond after eight golf balls, struck by a club in Mr. Fields' hands, had preceded. Mr. Fields, calling upon the heavens to witness what he was about to do, not only threw the caddy and golf bag into the pond but tried heroically, if ineffectually, to hold the caddy's head under water until he, the caddy, drowned.

"It was a close call," Mr. Fields said. "I almost had the little rascal, but he got away from me."

Money? Poof!

Hollywood sometimes spares no expense in the matter of golf. Foopy on money. One must excel, musn't one?

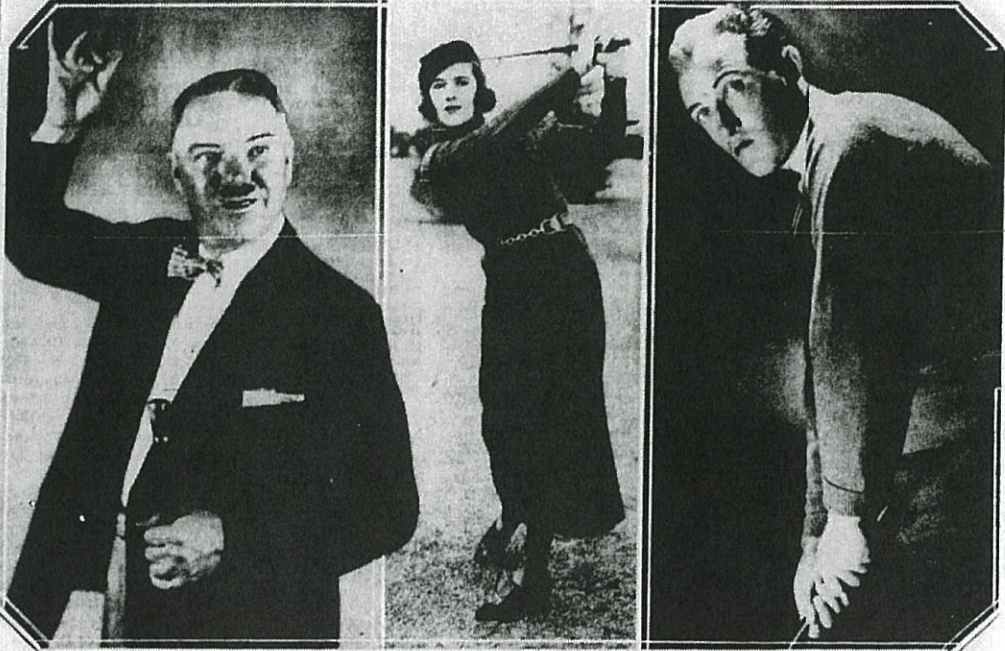

Howard Hughes, the millionaire director, once was making "Hell's Angels," a $4,000,000 picture which cost $50,000 a day. On three successive mornings Hughes notified his first assistant to pay off the entire army of extras and dismiss the company for the day, as he wasn't coming down to the studio.

On the morning of the fourth day, Hughes appeared on the set early, ready for work, announcing he felt better after three days of golf. It cost him $150,000.

But generally speaking, according to our Hollywood man, the movies' laddies and girdles do not

'Golf in Hollywood'... Stupendous, Epoch-making!

The deftly-tailored gentleman on the left is W. C. Fields; one of the greatest turf-manglers of the present day. He was the first golfer to throw his caddy in a water hazard. Next is Miss Ruby Keeler, domestically called Mrs. Al Jolson. Ruby is a very, very, very fine golf player and has the nation's lady stars shaking in their shoes . . . if you believe her Hollywood press agent. On the right, Bing Crosby, who really takes his golf seriously, aspires to a calcium spot in the divot-digging world. Bing rates tops in Filmland.

MOVIE GOLFERS

let their pocketbooks run away with their golf emotions.

Arthur Lake, the cinematic Harold Teen, plays a good deal on Los Angeles' municipal course, as do others. Lake is supposed to be a pretty fair player, despite his excessive slinness.

One golf club used to list in its membership Richard Arlen, John Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Charlie Chase, Charles Farrell, Huntley Gordon (who had a 7 handicap), Walter Huston, Harry Langdon, Antonio Moreno, Warner Oland, Buddy Rogers, "Slim" Summerville, Conway Tearle and Bert Wheeler. Wheeler, the better-looking of the Wheeler-Wooley comedy combination, does not see anything very funny spending "at least $5 every time I go to the club, what with balls, caddy fees, bets and one thing and another." So he doesn't play too often.

Mr. Wheeler's state of mind, it might be mentioned, is not eased by the fact Mr. Wooley "takes" him regularly. Mr. Wooley generally staying in the '30's.

Some Are Good.
The fact is there actually are a few really good golfers in Hollywood and the best of these are Bing Crosby, Doug Fairbanks Sr. and Richard Arlen. Arlen however, is very erratic.

Fairbanks for years has been a nut about the game. His fondest ambition is or was until he became involved in his European romance, to win a fairly good golf tournament. But he never has, tho' he breaks $5 frequently.

A few years ago Fairbanks went over to England and played in the British Amateur, a match-play tournament. Trilled by a large gallery, he performed creditably but finally lost his opening match on the 18th green.

Fairbanks, along with Harold Loyd, greatly admires the better American professionals, who have been entertained on many occasions in Hollywood. Loyd in particular is golf-crazy, and owns his own, private course where he holds a professional tournament each year.

This course, which is nine holes and a par of 26, has been called by Tommy Armour "the greatest test in the world for iron." Mr. Armour may no doubt be excused for a burst of too-altruistic praise in this respect, he and Mr. Loyd being good friends.

Bing Crosby and Arlen play together a great deal, and Crosby is said to have the stuff. Just how good he is it is rather difficult to ascertain. I have my doubts until the man gets himself in a tournament and does things.

Arlen was paired with Walter Hagen—another old movie star who used to be the featured player in impromptu "shorts" at Andrew Christie's old golf shop out at the Country Club of Rochester—in a tournament at Presidio last January. Unfortunately, Richard fell by the wayside, but he got a big kick out of Hagen's company.

All that remains now is Miss Ruby Keeler's big-time debut.

If Ruby will just come out of hiding and show her public that the press agent boys are not really a nasty bunch of hyperbolesquers, the Van Wines and Vines and Orcutt & Company will be in for a treat.

Community Shots Annex Trap Meet

Brook-Lea, Oak Hill Trail Behind 209 Score

Oak Hill Country Club proved genial hosts at its opening trap shoot Sunday afternoon. Tabulations showed today. Its team had to be satisfied with third place.

Community Gun Club, as was expected, led what was intended to be a five-team shoot but which dwindled to a three-team affair. The winners broke 209 birds besides showing high individual man for the day in Butler, who got 46 of 50.

Brook-Lea Country Club was second with 178 and Oak Hill broke 151. Country Club of Rochester failed to muster five men, Howard Kidd and J. H. Kitchen showing up to bag 40 and 42, respectively.

Summary:

Community

John Day's Golf Plans Ambitious

Prepares to Forestall
Live Pet Gifts
This Campaign

With spring just around the w. k. corner, the following article begins a series of twelve daily "statements" from golfers selected at random from as many golf clubs in the Rochester area. These "statements" purport to be an intensely honest, unexpurgated account of what the golfers interviewed think they are going to achieve on courses during 1935. Nothing is held back. First customer is John P. Day, Country Club of Rochester.

By JACK TUCKER

JOHN P. DAY of the Country Club of Rochester, who was playing golf in the lovely, peppermint days of 1902, faces the coming golf season with a complacency that would shame the most positive of seers.

Caught off guard as he was about to consummate a colossal bank deal, Mr. Day put finger to temple, tongue in cheek and reticence to the winds. Said he:

J. P. DAY

"Following my successful invasion of Canadian golf last summer I feel safe in predicting a sensational performance for myself on the links this year. There is nothing like a taste of good, virile, foreign competition to bring out the best in a man.

"First, I expect to add approximately 70 yards to my drive. This may surprise you. I know it did me when I first thought of it. I intend to do this by selecting only days when a 70-mile gale is blowing, then driving off with the wind at my back. I feel this is logical, and mathematically conservative.

Doesn't Fear 'The Haig'

"Secondly, I do not anticipate any trouble from Walter Hagen. In fact, I do not intend to play him.

"Thirdly, I expect to use a specially patented brassie, a child of my own invention, incidentally, with which nothing will be impossible. This club will have a ball-bearing action, rotating drive shaft, free wheeling, an ingenious motor concealed in the head and a small kitchenette and living room in the rear. The possibilities are endless with such a weapon."

With these well-chosen words, Mr. Day, a hard-hitting veteran of golf warfare which has taken him to courses throughout the United States, definitely, if not defiantly, throws his hat in the ring.

"I have a hat, too," he said. "It was hidden away in my attic under lock and key in the fall of '29, just prior to the crash." A man of initiative, you can see.

Actually, Mr. Day is a fine golf player. For many years he played consistently in the 70's, and can still.

Last year he did not play much. "The heat," he explained. "It has a tendency to burn me up." But he did go along to Toronto with Rochester's Centennial golf team delegation and, although you could not truthfully say he performed brilliantly, he at least was presented with the most startling prize of all.

Remembers Two Victories

You possibly may recall the case of Mr. Day and the baby skunks, and later the case of the New York State Conservation Department vs. Mr. Day. He won the skunks, who had not yet arrived at their peculiarly exclusive perfumed state.

The creatures were presented him for, allegedly, driving more golf balls out of bounds on the course where he played than anyone else. Arriving in Rochester next day with the skunks, he was apprehended by a game law man and fined. He later got the fine back.

Mr. Day expects he will also play golf this year at Monroe Golf Club. His fondest golf memories? The times some 25 years back when he won two good golf tournaments in Connecticut.

Rochester's Women Golfers Open the Season—Indoors!

Miss Eva Howe Heads Women Golfers for Coming Season

Miss Eva Howe, a nine-handicap golfer at the Country Club of Rochester, yesterday was elected president of the Women's Golf Association of Rochester. She succeeds Mrs. Vincent Bennett of Oak Hill.

At the same time, a meeting of club representatives at the home of Mrs. Bennett in Lake Avenue approved the dates of July 30 to Aug. 3 for the Association's annual championship. Four one-day handicap tournaments and three open dates tentatively make up the rest of the schedule, pending approval by the member clubs. The schedule:

May 21: One-day, Irondequoit Country Club
June 7: Open day, Oak Hill.
June 18: One-day, Ridgemont Golf Club.
July 5: Open day, Brook-Lea.
Aug. 20: One-day, Monroe Golf Club.
Sept. 24: One-day, Midvale.
Oct. 3: Open day, Country Club of Rochester.

Other officers elected yesterday are: Secretary, Mrs. Charles Fegan of Brook-Lea; treasurer, Mrs. MacNaughton Wilkinson of Locust Hill, and chairman of the handicap committee, Mrs. Harry Taylor of Ridgemont.

Miss Howe, new president, is a real veteran in this section. She has been playing golf for eighteen years and is one of the better players in the association. She has never before been an officer either in the local or Western New York organization, but she has been a candidate for office and many times has been representative for her club to meetings.

Of the other officers, by a coincidence all have the same handicap, 19, including Mrs. Taylor.

No changes of any kind are contemplated in the tournament machinery of the women's 1935 golf activities, the officers said. The maximum handicap of 28 remains the same, and the district championship will be conducted as it was last year, with the finals at 18 holes. Entry fee for the association is $3, no minimum age limit being set.

Chill Winds No Handicap To Pros—Links Get Brisk Spring Play

Unperturbed by forty-degree temperatures, George Christ batted out a sparkling 68 yesterday, Charlie McKenna got a 72, and Oak Hill Country Club ran a premature but successful sweepstakes, all on the very heels of Friday's snowstorm.

Sun-tanned from his winter in Florida, the doughty Christ was in mid-season form at the Country Club of Rochester. Despite the handicap of rough temporary greens George knocked in four birdies and an eagle, and just missed a 67 by straying at the comparatively easy 18th. The eagle was born at the dog-leg seventh, a par five, which he reached in two and canned the putt. Par at the Country Club is 70.

Playing with their pro were Jack McInerney Jr., Charles Case and F. F. Allen, McInerney playing well on the back nine. Christ's round established a low mark in the city for the early season.

His card:

Out 3 3 5 3 4 5 3 3 4—33
In 5 5 3 4 3 4 3 3 5—35—68

Charlie Stumbles at 16th

McKenna's 72, one over par, was scored on Oak Hill's east course. Out in a fast 34, Charlie kept it up all the way to 16th. There he stumbled into a bad 6, missed his bird on the long 17th and slipped to a bogey 5 on the tough 18th. Otherwise, the slender Oak Hill pro was consistency itself. He snared two birds, one at the 4th and again at 12th.

His card:

Out 4 4 3 4 4 3 4 4 4—33
In 4 3 3 5 4 3 6 5 5—38—72

Frank Krieger, playing with him, shot a 78 but Duddle, Ward, the other member of the threesome, picked up.

With the exception of Ridgemont and Irondequoit, every golf club in the district saw fairly heavy play yesterday afternoon, though some courses had a few temporary greens.

Anderson Has 83

Andy Anderson turned in one of the best reported amateur cards, an 83 over the long, par-73 Brook-Lea course. Rusty pitches and putting upped most other scores, the big trouble being "Short again!" At Lake Shore, a good crowd turned out; Locust Hill drew a surprisingly large number, Brook-Lea had 55, Oak Hill more than any, Monroe over thirty and Midvale and Hillcrest better-than-fair attendance.

L. H. Jackson and Ben Heughes were low gross in the Oak Hill sweepstakes with 82's, Dr. A. L. Parlow winning low net with 86-14-72. Summary:

Rough Guests Visit Greens In 'Cinch' Bug

Rochester Golf Courses
Would Crack Down on Voracious Insects

By JACK TUCKER

*"Fer the cinch bug'll
Git you ef
You don't watch out!"
—James Whitcomb Riley!*

The cinch bug licks
Its chops at sight
Of luscious golfing greens;
The cinch bug dotes
And even gloats
On verdant fairway scenes.

The cinch bug is
A pest, a lug,
A "guest" to be regretted;
This creature comes
To feast with feats
Of gluttony unwhetted.

A headache to
Your greens committee,
Each cinch bug is a honey—
He sniffs and smacks
And chews and gulps . . .
And costs a lot of money.

But "the cinch bug'll git it ef" he pokes his nose into Rochester. Greenskeepers hereabout will make determined war on him.

He and his cousin, the feared Japanese beetle, occupied the analytical spotlight in Batavia when the Western New York Greenskeepers' Association met there to discuss golf course problems. Fourteen members were present, with one Rochesterian, James Reid of Ridgmont, vice-president, on hand.

Next meeting is scheduled for the second week in May at Shorewood Country Club, Dunkirk. Other officers include President Frank Nichols of Buffalo, Secretary Loyal Allen of Collins, N. J., and Treasurer "Doc" Allen of Irondequoit Country Club, Rochester.

So far the cinch bug, which is believed to have spread over the west lately in the teeth of the destructive dust storm, has not neared this section. Neither has the Japanese beetle, which confines its damaging practices mostly to the eastern seaboard. The cinch bug, which eats the tops of golf course grass with unbridled voracity, has been known to level entire fields of farmers' oats.

It was generally agreed at the Batavia meeting that golf courses in Western New York had survived the winter well. Only "snow patches" represent a problem, and doses of mercury will remove them,

Reid said.

One of the grasses for greens which was discussed considerably at the meeting was "poanna," a comparatively rough grass which carpets a green well and seeds itself. Some courses, like Transit Valley in Buffalo, have this type of green throughout. Its merits versus the usual types of creeping bent are a subject for debate among greenskeepers.

Golf Association Schedule Ready; Country Club of Rochester to Open Sweepstakes Apr. 29

With all tournament days set by the Women's Golf Association of Rochester, and the opening of the Country Club of Rochester women's golf season slated for Apr. 29, players will be swinging in earnest within a fortnight.

The Country Club of Rochester's sweepstakes Apr. 29 will be the first of the spring at the country clubs. A buffet luncheon will be served after the morning's play. Brook-Lea Country Club and Monroe will open women's sweepstakes the following day.

The District Association events, announced yesterday by Miss Eva Howe, president, will include one-day medal events at Irondequoit Country Club May 21; Ridgemoor Country Club June 18; Monroe Golf Club Aug. 20; Midvale, Sept. 24.

The championships will be played at Locust Hill July 30 to Aug. 3 and open days will be held as follows: Oak Hill, June 7; Brook-Lea, July 5; Country Club of Rochester, Oct. 3.

Mrs. Harry C. Taylor is chairman of handicaps, Mrs. MacNaughton Wilkinson is secretary, and Mrs. Charles G. Fegan is treasurer. The Association for the first time is opening its membership to all woman golfers, regardless of whether they belong to the golf clubs.

The Country Club of Rochester will elect a chairman at its first meeting on the opening day of sweepstakes. Mrs. Hiram Sibley is chairman pro-tem.

Country Club Votes Hargrave President

Succeeds Wendel Curtis
To Leadership

Thomas J. Hargrave was elected president of the Country Club of Rochester at the annual spring meeting of the Board of Governors at the club on East Avenue. He succeeds Wendel Curtis.

Charles W. Smith was the only holdover officer, being renamed treasurer. Other officers to be elected were: vicepresident, Augustine J. Cunningham, and secretary, John Hill Kitchen.

No action was taken on whether the club's Invitation which was resumed last year after a short lapse would be continued this season or not. This is to be decided later.

GETS HOLE IN ONE

ROCHESTER (A^P) — Setting a mark for Flower 'City golfers to shoot at, George Christ, pro. at the Country Club of Rochester, had to his credit today an Easter hole-in-one and a par shattering 67 for the home course.

George Christ Raps Out 67, Snares His 3d Hole in One

Prior Ace at Same Hole: 72's Fall to Commisso And Charlie McKenna

Studded with a hole-in-one at the eighth hole, a par-shattering 67 rattled off the clubs of George Christ, Country Club of Rochester professional, at that course yesterday morning.

The short eighth, ordinarily a No. 5 or No. 4 shot, was amputated considerably by a temporary green just short of the dry creek, but the shot was even more remarkable because of the rough character of the green. George hit a mashie-nyblick to the small carpet, then listened to the oh's and ah's of his foursome, L. C. Forgie, Leon Sage and Phil Goodwin, as the ball dribbled toward the pin and disappeared.

The ace was the third of Christ's career. One had been achieved on the same hole and the other at Monroe Golf Club's 13th. On Friday Christ hit the pin on the difficult eighth at Hillcrest, the ball falling away an inch or two. The course record at the Country Club is 61, held by Christ, and one of the lowest scores ever shot anywhere.

Here's the Card

Going out, the taciturn, accurate pro was going no place in particular until he hit the ace at eight. He had slipped at the fifth, a good par 4, and ran into a bogie 6 at the comparatively easy par-5 seventh. But the hole in one apparently gave him the necessary impetus to get "hot" and starting on the second nine George moved out of Par House and into Birdie Row.

At the long eleventh he whacked two woods far down the fairway, pitched on and rammed in the putt for a bird. He clung to par for the next four holes, then canned another putt for his deuce at sixteen. There as nothing to it then. Par 4's arrived with dispatch on the two closing holes, despite the bumpy temporary greens that presumably should not help a golfer's game.

Christ's card:

Out	4	4	4	3	5	4	6	1	4	-35
Par	4	4	4	3	4	4	5	3	4	-35
In	4	4	3	4	3	4	2	4	4	-32-67
Par	4	5	3	4	3	4	3	4	4	-34-69

At Locust Hill in the afternoon George found the going a little tougher, adding just ten shots for a 77. He was playing with Bill Nagell, Locust Hill pro; Leo Ronan and Michael Michaelson. Michaelson also had a 77.

Elsewhere in the city golfers celebrated Easter Sunday with good turnouts at all district clubs. Christ's was not the only good round, 72's falling to Frankie Commisso, Irondequoit pro, and Charlie McKenna of Oak Hill. Commisso bracketed nines of 35 and 37, playing with Marcus Goodman, Arnold Becker and A. Edelstein at his home club. McKenna, with two 36's, slipped on three holes or he would have dipped into the 60's.

Most peculiar round of the day belonged to C. L. Cool, Monroe left-hander, who helped himself to an excellent 36, even par, on the hard first nine of the Pittsford Club.

Three Break 80

Other good golf was shot by Bob Adler, with a 78 at Irondequoit, Dud Ward with a 79 at Oak Hill, and Andy Anderson with a 78 over Brook-Lea's long, testing course.

Spring Days Take Young Riders Off to Bridle Trails After School and Weekends

Cantering along the bridle paths, trotting briskly through the parks, taking a leisurely way down the steep trails in the dugways, Rochester equestrians are enjoying the sunshine of spring as ardently as the golfers these days.

Sunday morning rides are in order at The Country Club of Rochester. Ten o'clock sees a group of men reday for the trail while Patty Nixon of Culver Road, Betty Oviatt of Barrington Street and Miss Katharine Stebbins of Clover Street devote many hours of the weekend to riding.

Army of Golfers Mobilized for New Season

Rochester Club Women Prepared to Cut Down Their High Scores if It Takes All Summer

Squads right—from the locker house! Present arms—at the first tee! Company march down the fairway!

The golfing army of Rochester women is mobilizing at country clubs in preparation for the season's maneuvers.

A general staff of executive committees, field marshalls who capture championships, generals who lead their clubs to victory—every rank is represented down to the greenest buck private.

Tomorrow the Country Club of Rochester will serve the first of its Monday luncheons for women golfers, election of officers of the Womens Golf Association will be held, and the first of the season's sweepstakes will be played.

The Datebook

Opening of women's golf sweepstakes and luncheon at Country Club of Rochester.

Women's Book Review Club meeting in Hiram Sibley Building, 11 a. m.

One-act comedy, "King Sargon's Jars," by Genesee Mask and Wig Club at 4705 Lake Avenue, 8:15 p. m.

Oak Leaf Charity Club show "Gay Nineties" at German House, Gregory Street, 8 p. m.

Officers Are Named At Country Club

Woman golfers of the Country Club of Rochester yesterday elected Miss Emily Weller chairman of their association, and drew up plans for the season.

Other new officers are: Vicechairman, Mrs. Edward B. Hall; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. L. Elliot Fitch; prize committee chairman, Mrs. Hiram Sibley Jr.; handicap committee, Miss M. Adelaide Devine and Mrs. Adolph G. Stuber.

Mrs. Charles Winslow Smith was named representative on the Woman's Golf Association of Western New York, and Mrs. Hall to the Woman's Golf Association of Rochester with Mrs. De Witt B. Macomber as alternate.

Final arrangements are complete for the spring luncheon of the Woman's Golf Association of Brook-Lea Country Club, which will take place tomorrow at 1 p. m.

The committee includes Mrs. Harrison B. Hegner, Mrs. Harry Emery and Mrs. Ivan L. Nixon.

The Brook-Lea Association has a membership of 85 women with Mrs. Fred L. Agnew as president. All members of the club are included in the opening luncheon.

Eight Golf Events On Ad Club's Menu

Eight golf tournaments have been booked tentatively by the Rochester Ad Club, with at least three trips out of town scheduled. Of these, one would be at Sodus, one at Le Roy for the annual rodeo, and the other at Buffalo for the annual match with Greater Buffalo Ad Club.

Chairman of the golf committee is Phil C. Goodwin of the Country Club of Rochester. Date and place for one affair, the quadrangular matches, has been undetermined. The schedule:

May 22, Scotch-Irish match at Lake Shore; June 12, Flag Tournament, at Sodus; June 26, Medal Play Handicap Tournament and qualifying round for club championship at Durand-Eastman Park; July 10, fourth annual meeting of the League of the Ear-Eye-Oi, all day, 36 holes, at Oak Hill; July 18, Ad Club Rodeo at Le Roy; Sept. 11, match vs. Greater Buffalo Advertising Club at Buffalo; Oct. 4, Harvest Tournament at Sodus.

Bridge First Today With Golfers

Golf sticks and golf talk will be "out of bounds" today when the women of Monroe Golf Club gather for their annual luncheon and bridge.

Mrs. Glenn C. Morrow is in charge of arrangements. Among those who have made reservations are Mrs. E. K. Hunt, Mrs. Prescott Lunt, Mrs. C. Leroy Cool, Mrs. G. Bergen Reynolds, Mrs. William S. Lozier, Mrs. Charles H. Spencer, Mrs. H. A. Scoby, Mrs. George B. Leech, Mrs. George D. Whedon, Mrs. C. R. Wright and Mrs. Hign M. Shirey.

The third day of play of the Monroe Duplicate Tournament took place at the clubhouse with the following results:

Section 1—North and South, Mrs. Benjamin A. Ramaker and Mrs. Kenneth E. Burleigh; runners up, Mrs. Henry Likly and Mrs. Milton Roblee; East and West, Mrs. Clinton H. Everts and Mrs. Dwight Van de Vate; runners up, Mrs. Hal Scoby and Mrs. Robert A. Hill.

Section 2—North and South, Mrs. Mason J. Gaffney and Mrs. Ross Robertson; runners up, Mrs. John C. Curtin and Mrs. G. Fraser Webster; East and West, Mrs. Carleton E. Bown and Mrs. Samuel Salisbury; runners up, Mrs. Taylor D. Bidwell and Mrs. L. J. Sanders.

The winners of the Duplicate Tournament played at the Country Club of Rochester were:

East and West, Charles W. Smith and Eric C. Moore. North and South, Mrs. Edward P. Hall and Raymond J. Bantel.

They Tramped Fairways at Opening District Tourney

Among the prominent members of the divot digging fraternity who marched the meadows at the opening tournament of the Rochester District Golf Association yesterday at Oak Hill were: James W. Weldon, Oak Hill; Harry Crittenden, Country Club of Rochester; B. A. Hughes, Oak Hill and Elmer Thaney, Brook-Lea. They didn't win any class prizes.

Rochester Awaits Arrival of Eaton Unmoved by Threat

Rochester— (AP)—Announcement by William Ziegler Jr., and W. Kingsland Macy, former state GOP leaders, that they were forming a new "progressive Republican state committee," failed to stir a ripple here today as regular party leaders awaited the arrival of Melvin C. Eaton, present Republican state chairman.

Thomas E. Broderick, Monroe County leader, dismissed the announcement with the statement that "the Monroe County organization is progressive and has demonstrated the fact."

Other leaders could see no particular significance in the move.

Assembly Minority Leader Irving M. Ives is accompanying Eaton on his campaign for a united front to recover control of the state Assembly.

Eaton and Ives will address a luncheon meeting soon after their arrival and tonight will speak at a Republican rally at the Country Club of Rochester.

had known the aviator as a child, she explained, but denied that they were engaged.

RAY FELLER, DOSER POST CARDS OF 71

Tie with Walt Bemish, Nagell in Hornell Pro Tourney

Hornell—(Special Dispatch)—Rochester and Buffalo golf professionals split honors in the second Western New York P.G.A. tournament at Hornell Country Club yesterday. Ray Feller and Clarence Doser were deadlocked at 71 with Walter Bemish and Elwyn Nagell in the pro-pro event.

Low medal round in the afternoon fell to George Christ of the Country Club of Rochester, who shot a 76. Doser, representing the Lake Shore Club, trailed with 77. The course record of 70 is held by Hooker Borden, home-club pro.

Bemish and Elywn Nagell, though playing respectively from Willowdale and Meadowbrook of Buffalo, are Rochester-bred players. Feller is from Ridgmont.

Other individual scores: Walter Bemish, 78; Hooker Borden, 78; Don Bemish, Newark, 79; Jack Gordon, Buffalo, 79; Bill Nagell, Rochester, 80; Johnny McGrath, Durand-Eastman, 83; Wendell Kay, Niagara Falls, 84.

Yachtsmen, Country Clubs Slate Races, Tournaments, Dances For Memorial Day

With brass bands, yacht races and golf tournaments and dances all around the city, Memorial Day will be the occasion for celebrations in nearly all the town and country clubs of Rochester.

At the Yacht Club the fleet will sail out in the morning under the command of Commodore Wilmot Vail Castle, to stage two handicap races. Following a picnic at noon, the members and their families will put on and their families will put on impromptu festivities aided by a brass band.

The celebration will mark officially the re-opening of the newly decorated club and the new refreshment room, and will also mark the inauguration of buffet suppers at the club. Others will be given during the summer.

The Country Club of Rochester celebration, in which 350 participate annually, will begin with a men's tombstone golf tournament and a golf ball sweepstakes. The 121st Cavalry Band will play.

If the weather is warm the members may take their midday meal out of doors. A women's and men's driving contest and a women's approaching and cutting contest are on the afternoon schedule.

Another event to which many will look forward eagerly is the opening of the Summer Beach Club of the University Club. The festivities will include a buffet supper and dance.

Monroe Country Club members will play golf on Memorial Day and dance next Saturday night. Brook-Lea Country Club members will stage a dance Saturday night.

Some other clubs have not yet announced their programs for the day, but will celebrate with sweepstakes, dinners or dances.

There is little doubt that members of Locust Hill Country Club will be faced with sun-tan and favoring sunburned noses over the weekend, for their Decoration Day plans include a full day of golf.

The regular sweepstakes will be played in the morning, to be followed by mixed foursomes in the afternoon.

The survivors will have dinner after the several rounds of golf.

The committee on arrangements includes Mr. and Mrs. J. Raymond Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kiefer, John McGrath and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Shepard.

How to Putt . . . in Three Simple Lessons . . . by George Christ, Who Knows the Line

BY JACK TUCKER

At once the bane and the joy of every golfer, the ticklish art of putting the ball into the cup belongs to few men. George Christ of the Country Club of Rochester stands high among those favored few.

In the strip of pictures below George is using the putter Walter Hagen gave him 21 years ago. The club has been in the East Avenue pro's bag ever since, and some of the putts it has knocked down are slightly incredible.

For instance, Christ—though few people probably know it—has shot one of the lowest standard rounds in America. It is a 61 at the Country Club, and at the time he only hit the ball 26 times on the greens. That means he had ten one putters, including a 30 footer.

The important feature of Christ's putting is that he very seldom misses a putt under four or five feet, and the percentage of ten-footers he drops would make your average performer look an efficient as a fat man in a three-legged race.

Here's the putting lesson Mr. Christ forthwith gives you free of charge. Merely observe the pictures below, then note these fundamentals:

- 1—Rest the right elbow lightly on the right thigh.
- 2—Keep most weight on left foot.
- 3—Start the back stroke with the LEFT hand, being careful to BREAK the hand, not TWIST it.
- 4—Start the down stroke with the RIGHT hand.
- 5—Follow through; don't stah at the ball.

George does not take excessive time on a putt. He lines it up thoroughly, thereafter applying himself briskly to the actual process of hitting. Once a putt is lined up, there is no need to dally over it longer. Too much time may give birth to slopes and curves and such like that don't exist.

Oddly enough, this fine putting expert's most remarkable shot was not a putt, nor an iron, nor a chip, nor a drive. It was an explosion shot, and its story is familiar to many who have followed Christ at all.

Playing for the Western New York pros' championship at Niagara Falls Country Club, Christ arrived at the 72nd hole needing to make up a 2-strokes deficit against Jack Gordon of Buffalo. Trapped on his tee shot, George did the impossible by sinking his explosion for an eagle two. This tied him with Gordon and the Rochester pro later won the playoff for the title.

On another occasion—while completing in a professional tournament at Moore Golf Club—Christ overhauled the leader on the last 18 holes after being six blows behind. Sensational putting with the trusty Hagen war mallet enabled him to finish four strokes ahead.

George believes the putter originally was the property of A. J. Christie, first pro at the Country Club.

"That would certainly make it aged," George said, "for I have no idea how many years Christie owned it. Walter used it to win his first Open championship in 1914, and when he came home he traded with me. I had one just like it— one of those mallet heads—but mine had a longer shaft, and Walter liked it."

Christ has never used any other putter in competition since, and the club looks just as formidable and fresh now as it did then.

In case you are interested, here is the record-making card of 61 that, one can safely bet, will never be broken at the Country Club:

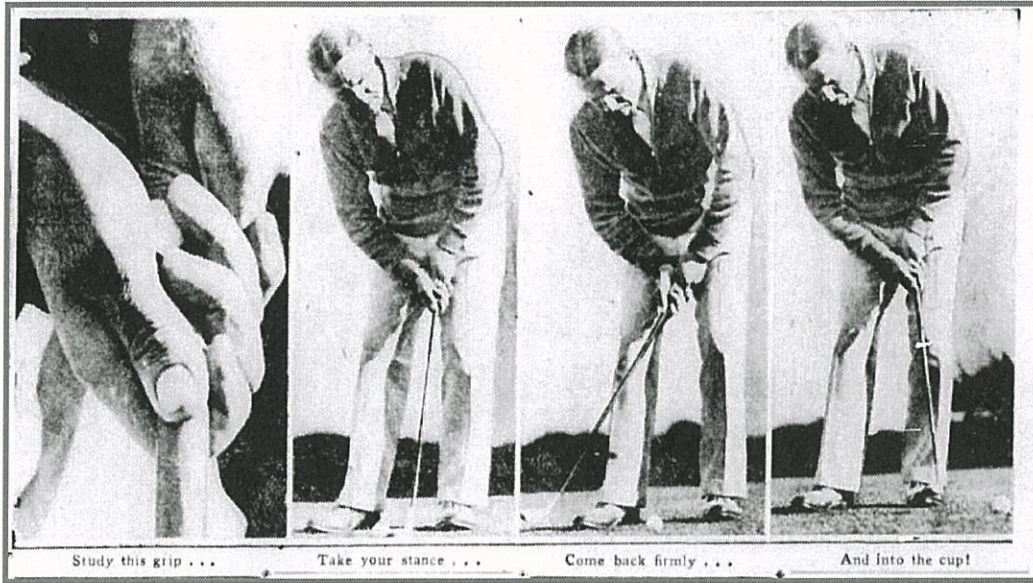

Christ

(Out) . . . 3 3 4 3 4 3 3 2 4 . . . 29
(In) . . . 4 5 2 3 3 4 3 4 4 . . . 32 61

Read those figures, friends. Sigh, ponder and give thought to the undeniable fact that the biggest thing in golf is the putt—for you must, eventually, get the little ball into the hole.

Bob Jones' famed 'Calamity Jane' has nothing on the ancient putter at which George Christ fondly beams. The veteran Country Club pro got the putter from Walter Hagen 21 years ago, and not even Walter himself ever handled it more efficiently than George. It's a mallet-head type, and George won't use any other kind. Any pro hereabouts will tell you how deadly George is with this implement.

Memorial Day Feast of Parades For Children, Day of Sports And Dining for Adults

MEMORIAL Day turned out to be grander than all the toy shops and candy stores in the world for the children yesterday, and for their parents it was a day-long festival of sports and eating.

of sports and amusements.
Next to the parade, of course the high spots for children were for instance, the parade in which they marched at the Country Club of Rochester, and paddling in the Genesee Valley Sports Club pool.

For the others there were the yacht races, numberless suppers, dinners and dances, and golf tournaments all day. Many went from club to club in the day's round.

At tables circling the flag pole and canopied by apple blossoms on the trees, 350 gathered for dinner at the Country Club of Rochester yesterday noon.

The crowd drifted toward the tables from the greens that spread beyond, where all morning the men had played their tombstone golf tournament. As the diners gathered around the 121st Cavalry band struck up a few numbers and were joined by all the children in a march around the grounds.

Grouped around the tables, which were decorated with tulips and white lilacs, were many family dinner parties. One was being given by Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Cunningham, whose daughter, Joan, was home from school in New York; Mr. and Mrs. Beckman C. Little, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian G. Devine and Judge George A. Carnahan.

Other tables were engaged by Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt B. Macomber, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Fitch, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Wolcott, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar N. Solbert, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hargrave, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. DePuy, Mrs. Charles M. Everest, Mrs. Frederick T. Pierson, Judge Nathaniel Foote, Mr. and Mrs. Marcos Hunting, Mrs. John C. Wells, Mrs. J. Warren Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Knowlton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. David F. Lawless, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. DePuy, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Strong, Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. H. Everest Clements, Mr. and Mrs. William O. Boswell, Mr. and Mrs. John J. McInerney, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Fitch, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Stocum, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Sheldon, Augustus J. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Stebbins, Mrs. John H. Howe, Miss Eva Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Pike, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram W. Sibley Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lyell T. Hallet and Mr. and Mrs. Marion B. Folsom.

Bumper Crowds Throng District Golf Links

Memorial Day Ushers in Official '35 Play; Scoring Low

The golfing guns fired mightily yesterday as Rochester district golfers officially launched—a Memorial Day custom—the '35 club tournament season. Nearly every club in town bracketed members for match play.

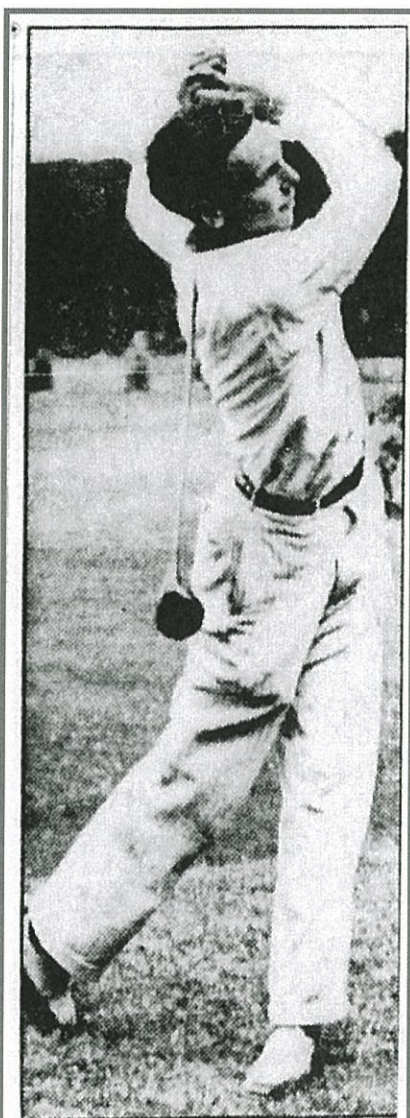

Oak Hill's pair of 18-hole courses played host to more than 400 golfers, 96 of whom qualified for match play in the Vicepresident's Trophy of three flights. Monroe entertained what was probably a record turnout in the Pittsford club's history, and Brook-Lea, Locust Hill, Ridgemon, the Country Club and others saw thousands of golf shots struck from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m.

At the city's 54 holes of municipal courses—Genesee Valley Park and Durand—Professionals George Collins and Johnny McGrath put in their busiest day as young armies of the public links turf-clippers enjoyed a field day.

Scoring generally was low. At Oak Hill, Dud Ward had a 75 to lead the big parade, and Del Jacobs topped the Hillcrest sweepstakers with a 74. Bill Chapin Jr. had a 76 at Oak Hill, and Lou Schauman, ex-University of Rochester athlete, won the driving contest at the same club with a total yardage of 671 yards in three tries.

Bob Callaghan, low scoring Ridgemonter, paced the sweepstakers there with a good 77, lowest round registered this year by a club member there. Callaghan also won the flag tournament. Mrs. H. R. Beal, with a neat 99, copped the ladies' flag tournament.

Best reported score at Genesee Valley Park was a 74 by Jack Garland, who led Cliff (Skip)

Fred Allen, who won the driving contest at the Country Club of Rochester links yesterday.

Opening Club Tourneys Attract Hundreds Of Qualifiers

At Midvale, Spence Punnett, the aviator, was around in 77 to show heels to Walt Leight & Company, who usually dominate the low gross situation. Cards of 80 were turned in by D. E. Macomber at the Country Club and by Johnny McGrath at Locust Hill.

Mixed foursomes were the order of the day at most clubs, women pairing with men in a type of event that has become increasingly popular during recent years. At Locust Hill Jack Morgan and Miss Zelma Street paired to win with an 88-18-70. Monroe Golf Club conducted a team match of women against men, the latter winning handily.

Big Ernie Maurer clouted the ball farthest at Monroe to win the driving competition. At Brook-Lea two women's teams—the Blues and the Reds—were pitted, the Blues winning easily.

All honors did not go to the low gross shooters. In Class B at Oak Hill, J. Cook threw a net of 63 at the field, and will suffer an immediate slash in his 26-handicap. Likewise, at Brook-Lea, M. Golden had a 90-26-64, and Louie Kremplin was around in 80 for low gross. Dud Ward, in addition to copping low gross at Oak Hill, won the John A. Robertson Trophy with an excellent 36-hole total of 147, made up of 72-75. His combined handicap of 6 left him with 141.

Probably the best score of the day belonged to Russ Farmer, Country Club of Rochester assistant pro, who had a 72. He was out in 34 and back in 38. George Christ, playing with him, had 73.

Riders Schedule Two Shows For June

June, the month when school ends and the outdoor life begins for all the younger set, will be a month for young riders around Rochester with two shows scheduled.

The Park View Stables will stage riding events Saturday afternoon and the Country Club of Rochester will have its summer show June 22.

The committee which has been lined up for the first event includes Miss Jane Gorsline, Miss Jane Bancroft, Miss Dorothy Dege, Capt. Alfred H. Doud, Robert J. Jones, Frank Whalen and Miss Mary McDowell. Arrangements for the Country Club show are in the hands of J. Francis Weller, John F. Weis, Alvah G. Strong, Pritchard H. Strong, Col. Oscar N. Solbert and Capt. Raymond J. Bantel.

Both of these events will bring out a crop of new young riders. One is Miss Joan Clarke, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eric K. Clarke of Pittsford, who will ride one of the 121st Cavalry horses in the class for girls under 15. Another is Miss Betty Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Carlson of Alberman Street, who has shown her skill in riding at public school shows.

Among the other riders will be Miss Jacqueline Myers of Canterbury Road on Nancy Dare in the ladies' saddle classes; Miss Jane Bancroft with Morning Mist and Miss Jane Gorsline with Idyll King.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Thomas will enter the show for the first time with their hunters, Sandican and Princess Seida, which will be ridden for by Van Zandt Knight of Avon.

Golfers Desert City For Lewiston

Forty-four strong, Rochester women golfers will take their turn on the links of the Niagara Falls Country Club at Lewiston today for the opening tournament of the Women's Golf Association of Western New York.

Among them are leading women golfers from each of the country clubs of the city, including Mrs. Walter W. Lyons, Rochester women's champion; Miss Jean Ramaker, title holder of Monroe Country Club and Mrs. Charles Hart of Oak Hill.

The Country Club of Rochester will be represented by Miss Eva Howe, Mrs. Oscar N. Solbert, Mrs. Dewitt B. Macomber, Miss Helen Little, Mrs. Homer Strong, Mrs. Clarence Robinson, Mrs. R. E. Frederickson, and Mrs. L. Elliott Fitch.

Monroe Golf Club players will be Mrs. Davis B. Doron, Mrs. Foster C. Yawger, Mrs. W. G. Meharg, Miss Jean Ramaker, Mrs. Ralph D. Bickford, Mrs. Walter C. Schleede, Mrs. B. A. Ramaker, and Mrs. Edward D. Creed.

Oak Hill Country Club will be represented by Mrs. W. W. Lyons, Mrs. Charles Hart, Mrs. Glenn O. Williams, Mrs. Vincent C. Bennett, Mrs. A. H. Schuyler, Mrs. Leon P. Clarke, Mrs. R. E. Gleichauf, Mrs. George Clark, Mrs. H. E. Edward, Mrs. F. B. Engert, Mrs. Guy Bloom, Mrs. Benjamin A. Heughes and Mrs. John P. Street; Brook-Lea Country Club by Mrs. W. H. Frickey, Mrs. H. W. Moore and Mrs. Harlow Webber.

Locust Hill by Mrs. Leo Burger, Mrs. Clifford White, Mrs. G. A. Warfield, Mrs. F. W. Kalb and Mrs. McNaughton Wilkinson; Ridgemont Country Club by Mrs. Ray Feller, Mrs. J. Y. Jeffs and Mrs. J. L. Hazen. Mrs. Morton Baum will represent Irondequoit.

Birdies & Bogies

INVITATIONS were mailed yesterday for the annual Country Club of Rochester tournament on June 28-30, chairman of which this year is Charles Z. Case.

Locally, only three or four bids are being extended, the recipients former champions or runners-up. Of this brief recipients former champions group it is doubtful if Art Yates will play because apparently the large Oak Hiller hasn't had a club in his hand this season. Country Club of Rochester members will of course compete.

Chairman Case said he expected Fairfax H. (Hike) Gouveneur would be here. Gouveneur at present is managing a big summer hotel in New Hampshire.

Mystery Party Country Club Feature

Invitations to a mystery party! That's all the Country Club of Rochester has to say about festivities to be staged there next Saturday, other than that the Monte Carlo atmosphere will be predominant.

Furthermore, the committee staging the event has sent its invitations with strongholds attached. Those invited are requested to make no comment on what the party may have to offer, according to Clarence S. Lunt, chairman.

On the committee are Burton C. Smith, John Hill Kitchen, Charles T. DePuy, William B. Morse Jr., Phillip C. Goodwin, Mrs. Oscar N. Solbert and Mrs. John Hill Kitchen will arrange the decorations.

This affair will be the beginning of what promises to be a lively season at the club, for the three-day invitation golf tournament with all its attendant festivities will be played there again this year.

Riding Show Draws Society Crowd

An afternoon of sunshine interspersed with clouds and cooled with a breeze from the west brought out a goodly number of horse lovers for the second annual show at Park View Stables.

The paddock at the end of Klink Road was circled with cars while admiring relatives and friends watched riders put the horses through their paces. There were children, young people and men riding in the various classes. Donald Heberle was the youngest rider of the afternoon. The younger set was also represented by the Misses Jean Lindsay, Jacqueline Galloway, Barbara Strong, Joan Clark, Jacqueline Myers, Jane Bancroft, Betty Carlson and Anne Woodbury.

Miss Helen Schlegel, Miss Caroline Williams, Miss Jane Gorsline and Mrs. Katharine L. Collamer were also listed in several classes.

Among the spectators watching from cars and greeting friends around the paddock were, Jess W. Lindsay with his daughter Miss Caroline Lindsay, Miss Gail Allen, who recently returned from Miss Weaver's School at Tarrytown, arrived with Miss Suzanne and Miss Barbara Will, Mrs. Charles H. Stearns was with her son, Charles Stearns, and John Norton. Miss Isabelle Kitchen, the Misses Joyce and Jean Hagen, Miss Nancy Garkick, Miss Jacqueline Meyers, Miss Ann Barrows, Miss Betty Strong and Miss Virginia Durand strolled from one vantage point to another.

Mrs. Ernest F. Jenkins came later in the afternoon but in time to see the jumping, Mrs. E. E. Gorsline and Mrs. Horace W. McDowell were there to see Miss Jane Gorsline riding and Miss Mary McDowell in the ring bestowing the coveted blue, red and yellow ribbons. Dr. Edward S. Ingersoll arrived to see his daughter, Miss Mary Ingersoll, in the different events and J. Francis Weller and Raymond Bantel rode over from the Country Club of Rochester.

Trish of East Aurora shot 143 and 144 respectively over 36 holes yesterday at Stafford Country Club's testing layout to lead the qualifying for the Japanese team match at Meadowbrook on July 14.

Twenty professionals from Western New York competed for places on the six-man team. Trish led the field in the morning with a near-record 69 for the par-73 course.

Other qualifiers were Ned Mc-Kenna, Hillcrest, 74-74—148; George
Vatke, Monroe, 77-72—149; Charlie
McKenna, Oak Hill, 77-75—152, and Howard Swanson, Tri-County, Buffalo, 77-75—152. Swanson had a brilliant 70, three under, in the afternoon after a disastrous 82.

Trish, with a four-stroke lead over Christ as the pair, playing together, started in the afternoon, saw the margin dwindle slowly as the veteran Rochester pro played better-than-perfect golf for a 70 after his morning 73. Going into the home hole all even, Christ picked up the stroke that put him ahead. Trish's 6 at the 10th hurt him.

Frank Commisso of Irondequoit, Western New York PGA champ, came back in the afternoon with a 74 after a bad 82, but it wasn't good enough. George Vatke, Monroe pro, shot an excellent 72 in the afternoon. Scores:

With Seeing Eye, Chairman Weldon Produces

District Golfers Assured Of Tournament Zest Under Oak Hiller

By JACK TUCKER

When Rochester district golfers descend on the picturesque, surprisingly revamped Durand-Eastman golf course Wednesday for a best-ball tournament their presence will be—in a sense—testimonial to the work of James W. (Jim) Weldon of Oak Hill, tournament chairman of the Rochester District Golf Association.

Jim Weldon is an ideal tournament chairman. He possesses a wealth of tournament experience, he loves golf, he has many friends, he is the type who weighs suggestions with care, he is not afraid to go ahead with schemes that are different.

When R. D. G. A. President Bill Springer appointed his old friend to the tourney chairman post he did so because "I simply couldn't think of a better man for the job."

It may be that many golfers do not quite appreciate, do not quite grasp the importance of Weldon's job. They might say, "Tournaments? Why, let's just have one every month or so. Nothing tough about figuring that out."

Hard to Please All

Aha! Such biased citizens do not know the grief that goes hand in hand with arranging something that must suit everybody.

Critics grow like a rolling snowball when they collect at the Nineteenth Hole and quip about the perspiring man who takes care of the details. But Jim Weldon will do his job well. He already has started to. The first tournament at Oak Hill drew a positively colossal field—unheard of in Western New York.

Weldon's idea is that golfers get pretty tired of the same old grind of 18-hole medal play handicap tournaments.

"It's just as easy to arrange something novel—something that has worked out well elsewhere," he feels. "We do not intend to make out our full schedule this year in a hurry, either. Suggestions are welcomed. The type of each subsequent tournament will be decided as we go along."

Wednesday's affair is something of an experiment. It will be a best-ball tournament, with any district player allowed to pair with a friend—providing the friend's handicap does not exceed his own by more than 12 strokes. Of their combined total handicaps, $\frac{3}{4}$ is taken. If the net figure, then, is six or eight or fourteen, those are the number of strokes allowed according to par on the card.

Personal History

Chairman Weldon has what one might describe as a background rich in golf. He was born in Rochester, raised in Rochester, played his golf in Rochester for more than

Background Shows Wealth Of Links Experience And Understanding

20 years. With the exception of three years spent recently in Boston, he has always lived here.

The tournament chairman is himself an excellent golfer and—a fact that may surprise many people—was the second champion of the Rochester district. This was six years ago at the Country Club of Rochester, when the championship was straight 72 holes of medal play. Art Yates won the title first, at Oak Hill in 1929.

Back in the sheep-roaming days of Genesee Valley Park—where dyed-in-the-woolers rode grandly to the course on bicycles—Chairman Weldon learned how to play golf. He was an oldtime member of the fruitful Genesee Golf Club, along with Charlie McKenna, now professional at Oak Hill. Playing with him in the old days were the brothers Nagell—Bill and Elwyn—Harold McDonald and many another who since have become pros or stayed excellent amateurs. Bill Springer and Harry Harman were colleagues of Weldon then, and are now.

A Real Oak Hiller

About fifteen years ago Weldon joined Oak Hill Country Club, then a rolling layout fronting on the Genesee River, Elmwood Avenue and the railroad tracks. He stayed there until his brief three-year sojourn in Boston and re-joined when he came back two years ago. In Boston he played at Salem Country Club.

The best score he ever has shot is even 70, played on the present Oak Hill east course—which proves that the advancing years do not impair but often improve a man's golf game. Charlie McKenna is Jim Weldon's idea of a fine golfer, and Charlie, no doubt, has been his model. He could scarcely have picked a better one. The two are intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon live in Genesee Park Boulevard and have a daughter, Helen Marie, 18. His other sport? You guessed it. Bridge!

Pros Defeat Amateurs in Danahy Golf

Register 37-to-23 Victory
At Buffalo; George Christ
Low with 72

Buffalo—(Special)—The beautiful new Danahy Bowl, supplanting the Danahy Shield, which did a famous disappearing act a few years ago, became the proud possession of the Western New York pros as they scored a 37-to-23 decision over the Buffalo District amateurs in their annual tussle this afternoon at the Erie Downs Golf and Country Club.

Capt. Jack Ahern of Wanakah, Warren Kingsbury of Cazenovia and R. Norton, a newcomer from Niagara Falls, accounted for the only clean sweep in points for the Simon Pure, as they struggled gallantly but vainly to match the almost perfect shot making of the paid-to-play brigade.

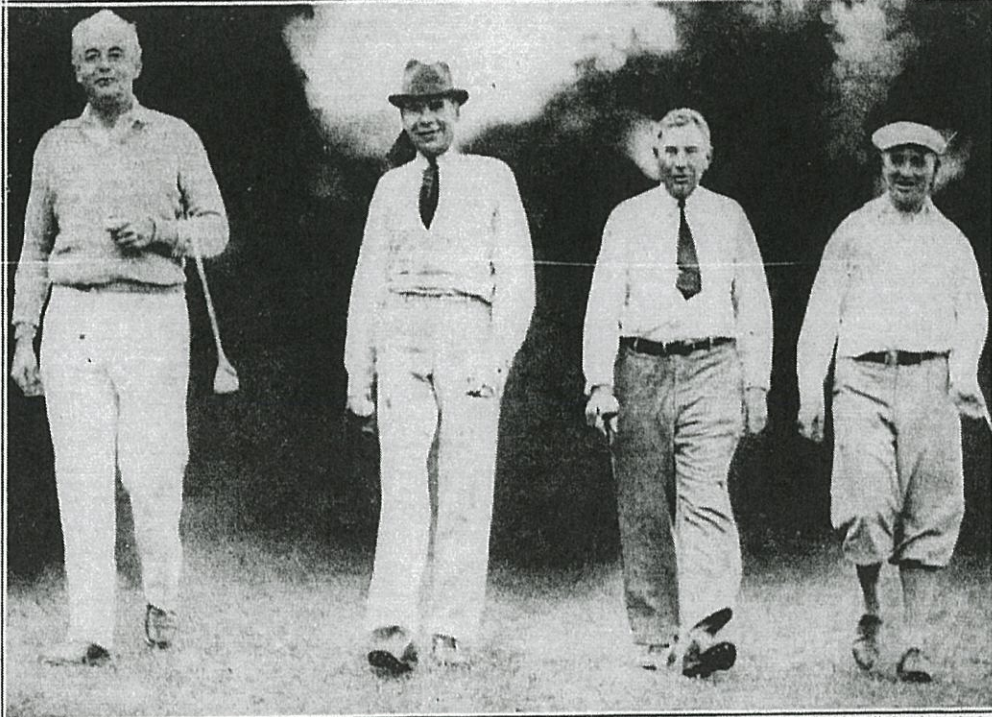

George Christ of the Country Club of Rochester led the pros' attack with a par 72, made up of an outgoing 35 and an incoming 37. Frank Comissio of Irondequoit carded a 37-36-73; Charley McKenna of Oak Hill, a 38-34-74; George Valke of Monroe, a 36-38-74 and Frank Krieger of Oak Hill, had a 38-36-74. The latter just missed an ace on the short fifteenth when his tee shot hit the pin and dropped a foot away from the cup.

Those scores were considered exceptionally good in view of the fact that a morning rain slowed the course to some extent, a near gale blew many shots askew and only the early finishers avoided the late afternoon downpour.

Charley McKenna, whose incoming 34 was the best nine-hole score of the day, bagged an eagle three on the 11th when he slammed his brassie second five feet from the flag and holed out. He deuced the 12th by chipping in from off the carpet after his drive had just missed the green. Charley wound up the round with a birdie on the 18th, getting home with two woods and taking the regulation two putts. Scores:

Camera Catches Also-Ran Foursome in Durand Play

Just a little weary but enthusiastic about Durand's beautiful golf course, Charles Z. Case (from left), William B. Macomber, D. B. Macomber, all of the Country Club of Rochester, and Del Jacobs of Hillcrest, were caught by the cameraman as they started down No. 10 fairway. None of these finished in the money as the Rochester District Golf Association staged another successful one-day tournament. Players from all over the city and Canandaigua were on hand to the number of 106, as a best-ball two-man competition was played. It was the first event of its kind staged by District golfers.

Sprinkled with international flavor already, the Country Club of Rochester's invitation tournament which starts next Friday may have a real big name in the field—Francis Ouimet.

Ouimet has sent his regrets, but it is believed he may change his mind. Other threats in this tournament—considered by many a good out-of-town player as the best invitation event in the country—are Gordon Taylor of Toronto, Joe Thompson of Burlington, Ont., who had won three Canadian tournaments in a row before losing in third round of the Canadian National; the 1935 and '34 Yale golf teams; Bill Tobin of Plandome, last year's winner, and the usual group of strong down-staters.

Golf in Spotlight With Women This Week

Shiny new balls, tees, fairways and possibly hazards and the rough will be foremost in the thoughts of golf-minded women throughout this week.

Tuesday will see the visiting and local stars setting forth from Number One tee at Oak Hill Country Club for the second match of the Western New York Golf Association. Many Buffalo golfers will be included in the listed 100 players.

The championship match will be played at Meadowbrook Country Club at Clarence, July 16 to 20.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be crowded days in masculine golf circles with the invitation tournament, topping the events at the Country Club of Rochester. The proverbial 19th hole will be at the stag dinner to be held Friday evening in the club. In spite of the fact that this is a man-made and man-engineered affair, the wives of the players will come to the fore as guests at the dance Saturday evening.

Among the out of town enthusiasts will be: Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Robertson of Wilmington, Del., who will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Weis Jr. of Buckingham Street; Mr. and Mrs. James Robbins of Philadelphia, the guests of Charles Z. Case of Elmwood Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Raynor Gardiner of Dedham, Mass., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt B. Macomber of Elmwood Avenue.

Defending Champ, Ex-Champ, Challenger in Tourney

When a crack field opens up at the Country Club of Rochester's Invitation tournament on Friday, Bill Tobin (from left) of Plandome, L. I., 1934 winner; Fairfax H. (Hike) Gouveneur, 1928 winner, and Gordon Taylor of Toronto, runnerup to C. Ross Somerville yesterday in the Canadian Amateur, will be hard to beat. More than a hundred golfers, mostly from out of town, have been invited, including Arthur (Ducky) Yates and Jack Tucker, both of Rochester. It's the biggest and one of the classiest fields in the colorful tournament's history, and plenty of fireworks are anticipated.

Country Club's Invitation Event Bodes Record Field

Bill Tobin Will Defend Title in Tourney Opening Friday

With an anticipated record field headed by Gordon Taylor of Toronto, runnerup in the Canadian Amateur golf championship concluded yesterday, the Country Club of Rochester will stage the 11th revival of its famed invitation tournament starting Friday.

Departing from custom, the tournament finals will be played Sunday afternoon instead of Saturday. Sixteen can qualify for the championship flight, but there will be five other sixteens.

On hand to defend the title he won last summer will be Bill Tobin of Plandome, L. I., along with at least one other previous winner, Fairfax H. (Hike) Gouverneur.

Outside of the Country Club membership itself, only two Rochester players have been invited. They are Arthur (Ducky) Yates, first winner of the classic back in 1923, former New York State champion, and once co-medalist in the United States Amateur, and Jack Tucker of Locust Hill, Rochester district champion for four years.

Yates Doubtful Starter

Yates Doubtful Starter

It is exceedingly doubtful, however, if Yates will play. He apparently has not played a game of golf this year. Tucker, however, will be among the starters.

Brightest light of the affair will be, of course, Francis Ouimet—if he is induced to come.

Ouimet was tendered an invitation some time ago and, according to his custom, sent regrets. However, it was understood from W. B. Macomber, assisting Chairman Charles Z. Case, that Ouimet might be on hand anyway. If he does he will be a house guest of Frank E.

Gannett, publisher of The Gannett Newspapers, who is a friend of the Bostonian.

Chairman Case himself will have to resort to airplanes to get here for the opening. He must be in Denver on Wednesday, two days before.

Other formidable contenders include Jimmy Robbins of Philadelphia, a two handicap man in the Quaker City district; the veteran Stanley Emerick of Oswego, always a strong entrant; Joe Thompson of Burlington, Ont., Canada, one of the Dominion's outstanding players; George (Pat) Raynor of Niagara Falls, qualifier in the National Amateur at Boston, and Chris Carr of Buffalo, another National qualifier.

Craves Win Upset

Only two players have ever won the championship twice. They are W. Hamilton (Ham) Gardner of Buffalo Country Club, and Art Yates of Oak Hill. Yates' hopes of making it a trio were dashed last year when he bowed to Tobni in the finals.

Other winners have been Roland Tickner of Syracuse, "Hank" Comstock of Buffalo, and Bob Craver of Canandaigua.

Craver's victory was, probably, the most surprising of all the good golf played in the 10-year-old tourney. Given virtually no chance whatsoever in 1931, Craver nevertheless downed Yates with a spectacular splurge of golf, then met Jack Tucker in the finals. He beat Tucker, 1 up.

The historic course—oldest in the Rochester district and the original stamping grounds of Walter Hagen—will be open all this week for contestants. In the qualifying round, the contest for the American Golfer Trophy for pairs will be conducted. A stag dinner will be served on Friday evening, and a dinner dance will entertain contestants and guests on Saturday.

Brendan McNerney Entered from Yale

Brendan McNerney, 18-year-old Yale sophomore who plays his summer golf at the Country Club of Rochester, is the only Rochester boy entered in the National Intercollegiate championship.

Regular member of Yale's crack team, Brendan will participate in the team match scores in addition to being rated a good bet to qualify for match play. Out of some eight Yale matches played during the season, the slender Rochester member dropped but one. He has grown considerably in the past two years, and has consequently lengthened his game considerably.

Gene Thaney of Rochester, new captain of Holy Cross College golf team, decided to pass up the national tournament.

Rochester Youth Gets Big Advantage but Falters Near End

By JACK TUGER

Apparently beaten hopelessly, a tired young Canadian named Joe Thompson pulled himself together with a spectacular rally and downed 18-year old Brendan McInerney yesterday afternoon to lift the Country Club of Rochester's invitation championship.

Four down and seven to go, the aggressive, stocky Dominion player saw the youthful Rochesterian sagged in the home stretch to win, one up. Thompson, a crack hockey player, is from Burlington, Ontario.

One of the biggest galleries in the colorful tournament's history tramped the 18 holes under a bright hot sun to watch a finish always anticipated but seldom witnessed. Thompson won the match on the 17th green, where he ran down a four foot putt after McInerney's five-footer stopped on the lip of the cup.

Brendan Beats Champ

Brendan made a last desperate stand for a birdie three on the rolling 18th green where, confronted with a tricky half stymie and a treacherous slope in the green, he boldly rapped a 20-footer at the cup. The ball slid by on the left and Brendan conceded Thompson's 12-inch putt.

Playing for the home club, young McInerney—a Yale junior-to-be and regular on the Eli golf team—startled tournament followers in the morning by ousting Bill Tobin of Plandeme, the defending champion. His margin of victory, 5 to 3, was remarkable.

Thompson, in the morning, came back again when the pressure was on him. One down and two to go against 20-year-old Freddy Allen of the Country Club, the medalist and another Yale player, red-faced Joey rapped in two pars at 17 and 18 as Allen stumbled momentarily.

Freddy Trapped Out

The big surprise of the tournament, Allen owed his elimination to bunkered shots just when he was trying his best to hit the ball straight. He pushed his second into a trap at 17, exploded out and took two putts, then pulled a long tee shot into a hard-baked trap on 18. He came out fairly well, but couldn't quite get his four. Thompson's headaches started at the first hole in the championship match.

On this 330-yarder Joe zipped a niblick pitch less than three feet from the pin, only to see Brendan knock down a beautiful 15-foot side-hill putt for a birdie. Thompson thereupon missed his little fellow.

At the long second, a tough 441-yarder, McInerney was well on after a huge drive and lengthy pitch. Thomson pushed a long wood into the rough, was too strong with his second, then missed a chip coming back to go two down.

Ten-Footer Drops

Brendan, using a center-shafted putter with deadly accuracy, stroked in a ten-footer at the third to go two under par and gain a three-up lead. Though he lost the next after a weak iron, he got it back again with a fine par four at the teeing fifth. He dropped the dog-leg sixth on a half stymie as Thompson had a par four well in hand.

The McInerney chances never looked better after Thompson finished playing a series of poor shots on the 7th, 524 yards. Brendan hooked his drive, recovered nicely with an iron, pitched cautiously away from the traps at the right and over to the far left corner of the green. Thompson meantime had hit a perfect tee shot, only to push an iron, where he might better have used a spoon, and smother a tough shot out of wiry rough. He finally got a six to Brendan's five.

They halved the eighth in par threes, but Thompson—who was on the wrong end of what few breaks there were—ran into a dead stymie for a win at the ninth. He could do nothing with the putt, his attempt caroming off Brendan's ball.

Neither got a par four at the 10th, due to poor seconds. Three down at the 550-yard 11th Thompson proceeded to slug his tee shot out of bounds to the left, the ball crashing loudly against a garage off the course.

At this point, the Canadian looked beaten. He drove again and hit a long hook that broke back onto the course about 250 yards out. McInerney hit a high fade into the fringe of the rough, recovered excellently with a beautiful, crisp iron, but was short with his third. Thompson smacked a magnificent brassie to within three feet of the green, only to miss a short putt. Brendan ran down a trying 12-footer for a winning par five.

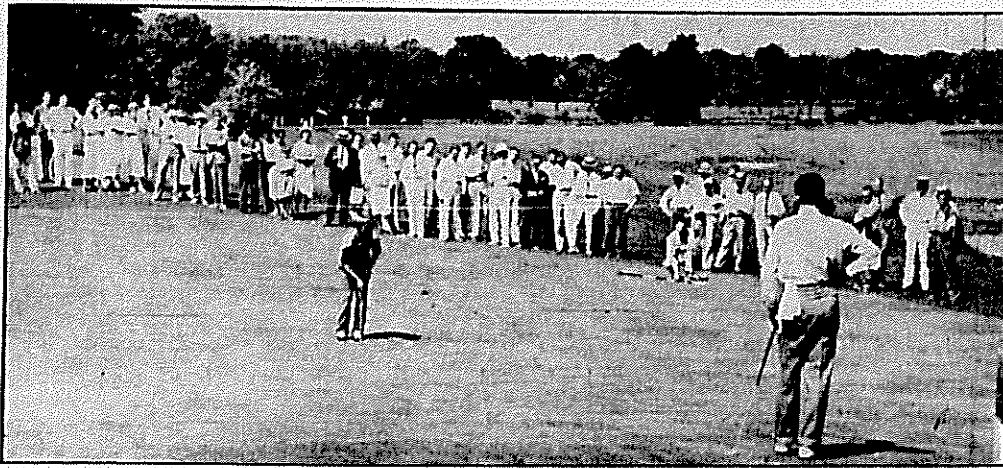

Thompson Gets Hot

McInerney therefore stood four up and seven to play on the 12th tee and few in the gallery would have given a nickel for Thompson's chances. But they were mistaken. From that point, Joe ran off a

In a special best-ball consolation tournament, Bill Macomber of the Country Club paired with Romeyn Scribner of Apawamis to shoot a gross 69 and net 66. In second place was the team of Law Weatherwax of Albany and Jack McInerney Jr., of the County Club, who had 69-2-67.

The most incredible start of the day fell to Weatherwax, who accomplished the unheard-of feat of getting a birdie three at the first, and an eagle two at the 441-yard second. At the latter, Weatherwax, one of the longest hitters in the east, smashed out a 300-yard drive, and sank a niblick pitch.

Townson's 7 Goals Feature Blues' Win over Whites, 11-6

With Colonel Kenneth C. Townson driving in seven goals, the Blues rode to an easy 11-to-6 polo victory over the Whites yesterday afternoon before a big crowd at Genesee Valley Park. In the face of Colonel Townson's brilliant scoring, the Whites were unable to compete with any marked success.

Off to a 3-to-2 lead in the first chukker, the Whites folded up and never regained their form until the latter part of the fray. Twice the Blues rammed goals through the uprights in the second chukker to gain a lead they never lost. In the third, they pushed through three markers.

The Whites rallied in the fourth and scored twice to even the two tallies and each scored once in the fifth. The Blues finished up by counting again in the sixth. The game was one of the fastest of the year and was featured by much hard riding. The stickwork, at times, was spotty but on the whole was above average.

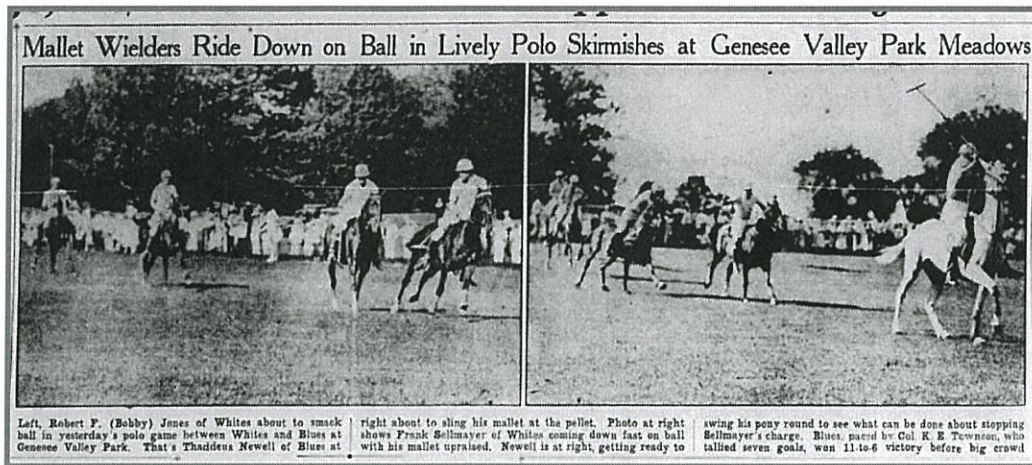

The hard riding Bobby Jones scored twice in the first chukker and Frank Sellmayer once for the Whites while Colonel Townson and Thaddeus Newell scored single goals for the Blues. Pritchard Strong and Colonel Townson again counted in the second with Strong getting two in the third and Townson one.

From this point on it was all Townson for the Blues. He clicked in two in the fourth to offset Sellmayer's pair and then counted in the fifth to even up Jones' tally for the Whites. In the seventh he ran his total to seven with a single counter.

A two-game series is listed for next weekend with the Cortland team. On Saturday the teams will play at Ellison Park and on Sunday the mounties will move over to Genesee Valley Park. Summary:

Golfers under 21 from the Rochester area would do well to hie themselves to Siwanoy for the State Junior championship which begins on Wednesday, July 10.

Freddy Allen, surprise medalist in the Country Club invitation, and Brendan McInerney have hankerings to play in the fast, important junior tournament. In previous years, Cliff Goodrich of Genesee, Ray White Jr. of Oak Hill, and Carroll Johnston of Monroe have entered, and it is time Rochester lands a worthwhile title from the more experienced upstaters.

Such crack golfers as Tommy Goodwin and Billy Ward have earned spurs at the junior championship. Ward, Syracuse Bellevue player and student at Syracuse University, is the defending champ. Entry should be made without delay.

Among the Country Club gallery who followed the garrulous, likeable young Joey Thompson and quiet, just as likeable Brendan McInerney on Sunday afternoon was a gratifying percentage of women. Gratifying, because it proves Rochester women are becoming more and more interested in tournament play.

Mr. Curtis is but lately returned from a several-weeks' European business trip during which, despite his allegiance to golf, he played just once—at Sunningdale. Yet he walked all the way around in a drenching sun on Sunday, and got a kick out of it, too.

WEEK TO ENTER AMATEUR PLAY

Rochester golfers who wish to enter the New York State amateur golf championship must have their entry—accompanied by five dollars—in by a week from tomorrow, July 15. Entries from this district should be sent to P. R. McCrae, secretary-treasurer of the association, at 82 Stone Street, this city.

Only members of clubs holding membership in the New York State Golf Association and who are bone-fide residents of this state are eligible to compete.

The championship this year will be played July 17 to 20 at the Winged Foot Club in Mamaroneck, a long, exacting course which places a premium on long hitting. The club is situated 40 minutes by train from New York City. It will be open to contestants on the Monday and Tuesday preceding the qualifying round of 18 holes. Thirty-two can qualify.

Eddie Driggs Jr., of Cherry Valley, is the defending champion. A Rochester man, Phil C. Goodwin of the Country Club of Rochester is a member of the tournament committee.

'Sir Walter' Named Ryder Cup Playing Head

Pro Golf's Grand Old Man Hagen, America Boss Against Britons

By BOB CAVAGNARO

New York—(AP)—The grand old man of professional golf's "old guard," Walter Hagen, was designated yesterday as playing captain of the American Ryder Cup team which will play a British Side at Ridgewood, N. J., Sept. 28 and 29.

Chosen along with nine other home-bred salaried shot-makers the 43-year-old Detroit veteran's selection was by no means an "honorary gesture" on the part of the Professional Golfers' Association, but justified recognition of the old campaigner's pulse-quickenings finish in the open championship at Oakmont last month. The "Old Haig" has been a member of every team since the biennial series was inaugurated with an informal match in 1926.

Hagen's teammates were named in the following order: Paul Runyan of White Plains, 1934 professional champion; Sam Parks Jr. of Pittsburgh, and Olin Dutra of Monterey, Calif., present and 1934 open champions; Ky Laffoon of Chicago; Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee; Henry Pickard of Hershey, Pa.; Horton Smith of Chicago; Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., and Craig Wood of Deal, N. J.

Merit Basis Used

All members were chosen on the merits of their competitive records for the past two years, although Runyan and Parks qualified automatically on the strength of their laurels.

For Parks it is another mille-stone in his meteoric career. Less than six weeks ago, just another pro struggling for a living, he skyrocketed to fame by beating the pick of the country's talent in the open championship. Purely on his record otherwise, Parks would not have gone in for consideration for a place on the team.

Dutra gained his berth somewhat by the aid of his garrison-finish victory in the 1934 National Open at Merion plus his triumph in the Miami Biltmore tournament last winter. Ky Laffoon, the 27-year-old Arkansas-born professional, has played 161 rounds of medal competition in an average of 72.3 strokes per round, topping all the active tournament players in the country. Laffoon's one victory during last winter's barnstorming tour was in the Arizona Open, but he figured in the money in most others.

Parks, Laffoon, Revolta, Picard Newcomers to Annual Matches

Revolta, winner of the Western Open championship last month, has the second lowest scoring average—72.7 for 139 rounds. Picard, victor in the Atlanta, Charleston, Agua Caliente and Metropolitan opens, lowest-scoring and leading gold-getting pro so far this season, drew up third with 72.8 for 89 rounds.

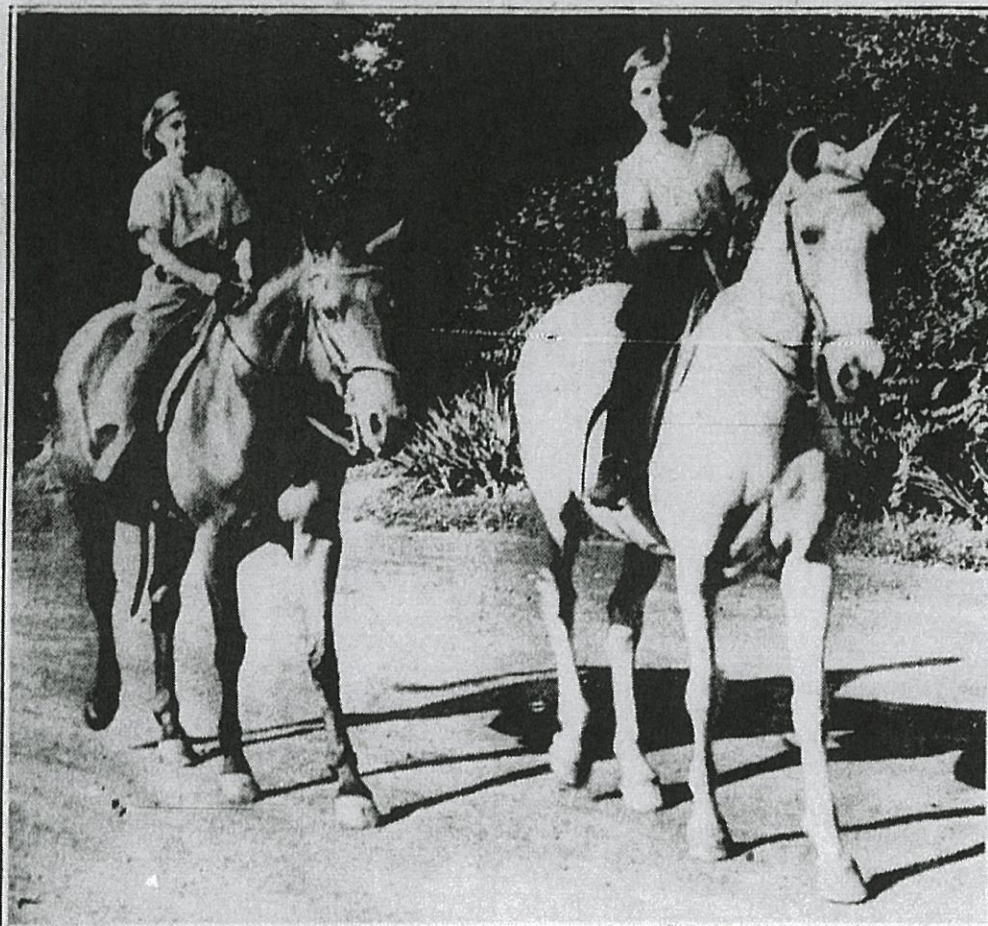

Has Four New Faces

Smith, Sarazen and Wood were chosen with average ranging fractionally over 73 strokes per round. Sarazen and Wood, the last two on the list, clinched positions by virtue of their one-two finish in the Masters' Tournament at Augusta last April. Wood also was runner-up to Paul Runyan in the 1934 PGA.

This year's team includes four newcomers to international competition—Parks, Laffoon, Revolta and Picard. They take the places of Denny Shute, Leo Diegel, Bill Burke and Ed Dudley, who helped form the 1933 team which was beaten in England by a score of 6½ to 5½.

The team represents the usual strength and showmanship, with Hagen providing most of the latter, but some eyebrow lifting was caused by the omission of Denny Shute, Ray Mangrum and Harold McSpaden. Shute and Mangrum tied for fourth and fifth in the National Open and Augusta tournaments, respectively, this year, while McSpaden won the San Francisco Open match play tournament and has played 46 rounds in 73.3 so far this year.

'Monkey' Tournament Is Feature On Golf Program Tomorrow At Country Club

GOLF devotees of the Country Club of Rochester today will forget score worries and turn to the lighter side of their game.

They have planned to stage a "monkey" tournament, a maddening affair played with one club throughout the course, and a mixed two-ball tournament. The games will begin at 4 p. m. and will be followed by an informal buffet supper.

Miss Emily Weller has charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Lawrence Gardner and Philip Goodwin.

Among the players this afternoon will be Virginia Anstice, William Morse, John Weis, Yvette Beardsley, Marjorie Stuber, Edwin Redfern, Charles Weis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winslow Smith, William Macomber, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Macomber, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jenkins.

Edward Peck Curtis, Helen Little, Eva Howe, Jack Ward, Darcy Macomber, Jack McInerney, Louise Devine, John Norton, Jane Allen, Mrs. Frank E. Gannett, Lucius Gordon, Anna Louise Wells of Buffalo, J. F. Weller Jr., Mrs. L. E. Fitch, David Lawless, Philip Goodwin and Dwight Sage.

Fred Allen Advances in Junior Golf

Country Club Youth Wins Two One-up Matches In State Tourney

New York—Fred Allen, flashing youngster from the Country Club of Rochester, yesterday scored two smashing 1-up victories to gain the third round in the New York State Junior Championship at the Siwanoy Country Club.

Allen was forced to travel 19 holes to win his morning match, downing Edward Callan of Westchester, 1 up. Paired against Max Feinberg of Elmsford in the afternoon the Rochester youth again encountered stubborn opposition, finally pulling out a 1-up victory.

Another upstate golfer, Vincent Schuster of Hornell gained the third round. He defeated Roy Duckworth of Westchester Hills, 1 up in the morning and downed William Fedor of Arrowbrook in the afternoon, 2 and 1.

Two youngsters, who learned their games carrying clubs in Westchester courses, Joe Cerlak and Jack Creavy, advanced two notches closer to a meeting.

Going into the final round there are three up-state representatives left against three metropolitan youngsters. In addition to Allen, Schuster, Creavy and Gerlak, the upstate is represented by Robert P. Jones of Albany.

Mrs. Strong's $5 Aid In Muny Derby Fund

Mrs. Homer Strong of the Country Club of Rochester yesterday contributed $5 to the steadily-growing Muny Derby fund. The coffers now hold $120, with a goal of $200 set to defray expenses of Rochester's four-man Muny team to the National Public links championship at Indianapolis July 29-Aug. 3.

Next Saturday and Sunday a special sweepstakes will be run by George Collins, Genesee Valley Park professional, at the park. The fee is only 25 cents, and it is hoped to get at least 100 names in the blind bogie event.

No Caddy Needed with Youth's Novel Bag

Harry Cumpston's Novel Device Has Everything But a Sun Porch

GOLFERS for years have made facetious remarks about the problem of lugging around a big, heavy golf bag. But nobody ever did much about it.

Harry Cumpston, who is 14 years old and plays golf at the Country Club of Rochester, got to thinking. And one day when the bottom unexpectedly fell out of the bottom of his bag, he decided on action. Result: The only golf bag that rolls on wheels, stands upright with ease, feels extremely light despite its size, and does away with the problem of REACHING into the pocket for a ball.

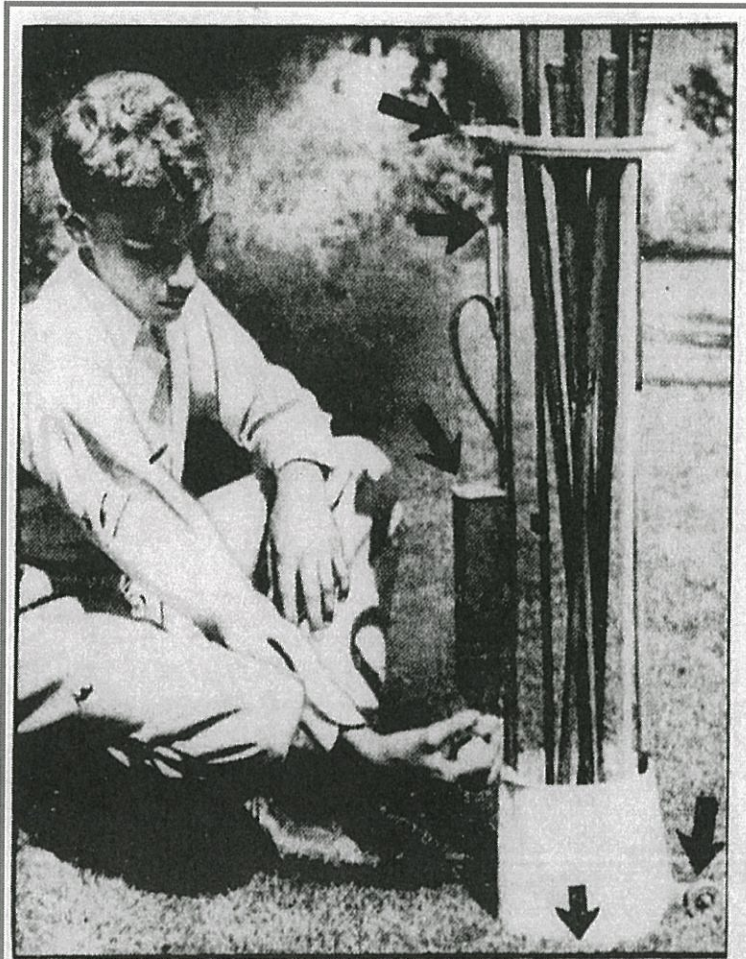

Harry's bag is strictly an open-air job. It hasn't any sides, outside of a light wood framework.

The bottom has a steel spike. Thus, you plunk it into the ground when you want to play a shot.

The ball-bearing wheel enables the thing to trundle along the fairway with "the greatest of ease." A push spring pops out golf balls with no effort at all. There is tee holder at the top and below it a place for a pencil. And, Harry confided, he may install a sun porch on one side.

"Of course I built the bag just for myself," the youngster said, in answer to a dark query as to whether he thought it would sweep the country and revolutionize the bag-making industry. "I guess I won't exactly be a manufacturer on a big scale."

Harry, who attends Brighton School No. 1, has been playing golf for about two years. He figures that with a ball-bearing bag he will conserve enough energy to out-last his contemporaries.

Youthful Harry Cumpston has made golf "easier on the back" by devising a home made open-air bag which he totes over the fairways with the "greatest of ease." Arrow at top indicates tee holder. Directly below is pencil holder. Center shows where balls are inserted. Cumpston is shown extracting balls, released by a push spring, while a steel is in the bottom of the bag and ball bearing wheel at right.

5 Rochester Golfers Start State Amateur Chase Today

McInerneys, M'Crae, Allen And Tucker all Set For Qualifier

By JACK TUCKER

Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck
—(Special Dispatch)—Sprinkled in one of the fastest starting fields in years, five Rochester golfers will attempt to qualify over this 7,000 yard course today in the annual
New York State Amateur championship. A score of 80 or 81 is expected to make the championship thirty-two. Rochester pairings:

10:35—Brendon McInerney, C. C. of R., and Bill Holt, Bellevue.

10:45—Jack McInerney Jr., C. C. of R., and James Ward, Siwanoy.

11:40—P. R. McCrae, Oak Hill, and Brewster Parker, Garden City.

1:55—Fred Allen, C. C. of R. and Bill Ward, Bellevue.

2:45—Jack Tucker, Locust Hill, and Rudy Knepper, Garden City.

Yesterday all the local hopes attacked Winged Foot with vigor but at the end of 18 holes no prodigious feats had been accomplished.

Playing with Walter Rothenburg of the home club against two favored metropolitan entrants — Celeste Durand of Garden City and Johnny Hines, brother of the pro of Timber Point—this correspondent finished two up. Rothenburg did well last year at Lake George and along with some half dozen others from Winged Foot, ranks as an almost sure qualifier. I had 78, the same as Rothenburg, while the other two were 80 and 81.

The McInerney boys and Freddy Allen, who have been barnstorming for a week away from Rochester, were all up in the 80's.

Yesterday Allen, medalist in the Country Club of Rochester tournament, was having plenty of trouble with a wide, diving hook. If he can persuade his left arm to do more work he will be all right. The strongest feature of his game is the tee shot.

Jack McInerney has been playing better than his younger brother Brendan, and stands at least a 50-50 chance of making the qualifying grade. Among the hotter favorites are Tommy Goodwin of the home club who no longer can be regarded as a youngster. Goodwin has grown into a hefty six-footer who knocks the ball a mile off the tees and slashes long, accurate irons. Goodwin is a former champion.

Eddie Driggs, who plays golf as well now as he did 20 years ago, is the defending champion and, possibly, the man in the field of approximately 140 to beat. With him are Rudy Knepper, Little Willie Turnesa—regarded by many metropolitan observers as one of the finest shot-makers in the country—Dick Chapman, last year's medalist; Charlie Mayo, Walter Rothenburg, Billy Ward, ex-State Junior champion, and a veritable host of

McInerney Beaten in First Test

Succumbs to Kaufmann
After Being Trapped
At 18th Green

By JACK TUCKER

Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck—Trapped at the crucial 18th green, young Brendan McInerney, of the Country Club of Rochester was eliminated yesterday by Leo Kaufmann of Gedney Farms, 2 up, in the New York State Amateur golf championship. It was a typically give-and-take affair all the way.

Out in a 39, Brendan was all even. Included in the round was a birdie deuce at the exacting third, where he holed a 15 footer, only putt he dropped all day.

Coming in, Kaufmann overcame a one-up lead taken by the Rochester player at the tenth, where the latter chipped in from a few feet off the green for his par three. The Gedney Farm's entrant, after squaring the match at the 213-yard 13th with a par three, where Brendan missed a three-footer to tie, went into the lead with a par four at 14.

Brendan Trapped

They halved the 15th with par fours. At sixteen, a dog-leg par five hole, Kaufmann executed a good birdie to become two up. This left Brendan in the uncomfortable situation of being dormie two. He rallied nobly at 17, a particularly hard par four, by chipping back from over the green and canning a three-footer while Kaufmann was taking a bogie five.

At 18 Kaufmann got a fine par four and Brendan, trapped with his mangle-nibblek second, could do nothing about it. Cards:

To my mind, the most interesting story of this tournament to date is the story of young Ray Billows, High School boy from the Dutchess Club, Poughkeepsie.

Billows yesterday morning overcame Charles Pettijohn of Westchester, 2 and 1, and back of his win lies a do-or-die "Suffer-or-not, I-will-win-or-bust" tale.

Billows, with just enough money to pay his entry fee of five dollars, slept on the floor of the locker room here Tuesday night. Next morning the problem of paying a caddy confronted him. He went to Mike Brady, the pro, and asked if he could carry his own bag. "Sorry," Brady said, "but it's against the rules of the club."

Billows began to worry some more and anxiously weighed the change in his pocket. At that moment a Winged Foot member, who overheard the conversation, interrupted and insisted on taking care of Billows.

That night, the night before the opening round, the youngster was given a room in the clubhouse. Unfortunately, about 3 o'clock in the morning his premises were invaded by a loudly gleeful stag party who were out to have a good time and wouldn't take no for an answer. The funny part of it was that Billows slept right on through all the noise.

Yesterday Pettijohn, another youngster, raced out against Billows in a terrific 33, three under par. And the match stood exactly even. Billows, who had a 35, nevertheless, played great match-play golf.

Wins at 17th

At the tenth, Pettijohn proceeded to smack a long iron dead to the pin for a birdie two. This put him four under par, enough to beat almost anyone. But he couldn't beat the slender kid from Poughkeepsie. Billows kept his head, watched Pettijohn slowly blow up, then stepped in to win the match at the 17th. Billows had a 71, one better than general par.

This tournament has all the wise citizens stumped. Tommy Goodwin, for example the favorite, was two up and two to go against Bill Holt of Syracuse in the first round. Holt, a dogged match player, there-upon got a great birdie three at the 17th to become one down.

At the home hole Goodwin pounded out a long drive, only to knock a tremendous pitch completely over the green and into a pine bush. He couldn't handle the recovery shot, an impossible one, lost the hole and Holt went on to win at the 19th.

The Syracuse contingent has proven the big surprise of the event so far. Five of the Salt City boys qualified.

Eddie Driggs the man who is never beaten, passed out of the picture early. Billy Ward of Syracuse, ex-state junior champ, was the victim of a fellow-Syracusan, Mr. Stevens. Ward fell 5 and 4, as a result of straying continually from the narrow fairways. He said that his game has become "all shot this year."

Youthful Golfers Offer Real Menace to Jack Tucker's Reign as District Golf King in Tourney This Week

BRENDAN MCINERNEY JACK TUCKER BOB CALLAGHAN GENE THANEY

Youth will offer a serious threat to Jack Tucker, four time king of the Rochester District Golf Association, when he seeks to lift his fifth straight championship in annual tournament opening Thursday at Ridgmont Golf Club. Brendan McInerney of the Country Club of Rochester; Bob Callaghan, sharpshooting Ridgmont player and Gene Thane, Holy Cross student who plays under Brook Lea colors, are all counted on as title contenders. Finals scheduled next Sunday. A record field is entered in the annual golf classic.

Title Tourney Scheduled at Locust Hill

Championship play begins tomorrow at Locust Hill Country Club for members of the Women's Golf Association of Western New York.

A large group has entered this outstanding event in the season for women golfers which is to continue throughout the week. Prizes will be given in each flight, and the championship and runner-up prize will be presented the last day of the tournament.

Mrs. MacNaughton Wilkinson of Locust Hill is in charge of the tournament, and she will be assisted by Mrs. G. Allen Warfield, Mrs. Clifford White, golf chairman at Locust Hill, Mrs. Frederick Kalb, who is in charge of handicaps at the club, and Mrs. William Price, president of the Women's Golf Association at Locust Hill.

During the first three days of the tournament a buffet luncheon will be served, and Locust Hill members will preside over refreshment stands located at various points on the course.

Officers of the association conducting the matches are:

President, Miss Eva Howe, Country Club of Rochester; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Charles G. Fegan, Brook-Lea Country Club; handicap chairman, Mrs. Harry C. Taylor, Ridgemont Country Club.

Representatives from the various clubs include:

Country Club of Rochester, Mrs. Edward Hall; Oak Hill, Mrs. Arthur H. Schuyler; Brook-Lea, Mrs. Charles G. Fegan; Monroe, Mrs. E. W. Maurer; Irondequoit, Mrs. Saul Frankel; Ridgemont, Mrs. Charles Vogt; Midvale, Mrs. Charles I. Davis.

Thirty-two of District's Crack Pros, Amateurs Pitted for D & C Shield

RIVAL CAMPS IN CONDITION FOR BATTLE

Doser Tackles Tucker,
George Christ Plays
Bill Chapin Jr.

Sixteen professionals and sixteen amateurs will wage personal battle for The Democrat and Chronicle Shield over the east course of Oak Hill Country Club Sunday afternoon, following pairings made yesterday.

Clarence Doser, biggest money-winner of the local pro brigade, will play Jack Tucker, ex-district champ, and Frank Commisso, PGA sectional champion, engages Freddy Allen of the Country Club in two of the principal matches.

George Christ, veteran Country Club pro, takes on the slugging W. C. (Young Bill) Chapin. Charlie McKenna, home club pro and captain of his team, is paired against Johnny McGrath, new district champ, and Ned McKenna, red-head from Hillcrest and long one of Western New York's outstanding teachers, tackles Eddie Randall, lone Rochester qualifier at the national public links championship in Indianapolis.

Play will be in foursomes, starting at 2:30. In addition to the individual matches, best-ball competition also will be in force in each foursome. The Nassau system of scoring will be used for both types of play.

Hailed enthusiastically by both the professional team and the hopeful amateurs, the competition is expected to draw galleries from clubs throughout the Rochester district. No charge will be made.

Feller, Adler Missing

Ray Feller of Ridgemont, among the pros, and Bob Adler of Irondequoit, amateur, virtually are the only outstanding players not listed. Adler will not be in the city, and Sunday is Feller Day at Ridgemont.

In other matches promising excitement, William (Pee-Wee) Walsh, long-hitting youngster from Genesee Golf Club and present public links champion of Rochester, takes on Godfrey McGarvey of Brook-Lea, who uses a brassie off the tees.

Noble Miller, the Canandaigua amateur who became nationally famous when he had seventeen consecutive one-putt greens and sank his approach at the 18th during a round, plays George Vatke, Monroe professional.

Frank Krieger, associate pro at Oak Hill, meets Al Sillato, rising young Genesee player who went to the finals in this year's district championship. Sillato is a long hitter. Helme Bishop, who with Commisso is considered the hottest slugger of all the pros, probably will have his hands full with Brendan McInerney, just-crowned champ of the Country Club of Rochester and member of the Yale golf team.

Anderson vs. Farmer

Andy Anderson, steady amateur from Brook-Lox, is bracketed with Russ Farmer, Christ's assistant at the Country Club.

Durand-Eastman's representative, red-headed Bud Habes, meets Louie Fitzgerald who, with Farmer, is the only assistant in the matches. John McGrath, Durand pro, will play Jim Weldon of Oak Hill, tournament chairman of the RDGA and first amateur champ of the Rochester district.

Bill Nagell, Locust Hill mentor, meets a particularly fine short-game owner in Paul Wosek of the same club, and George Collins of Genesee will oppose Carroll Johnston, Monroe amateur and captain of last year's University of Rochester golf team.

Al Rheinwald of Lake Shore, who did well in the district championship at Ridgemont, is pitted against Matt Collins, George's brother, and Bob Callaghan, Ridgemont amateur, will try to beat Jimmy McMillan, young professional from Canandaigua Country Club.

The amateurs can call on several alternates, among them W. B. Macomber and Harry Crittenden of the Country Club, and Jack O'Donoghue and Lew Schauman of Oak Hill. Pairings and starting times:

- 2:30—Charlie McKenna, pro, vs. Johnny McGrath, amateur; Godfrey McFarvey, pro, vs. William Walsh, amateur.
- 2:35—Clarence Doser, pro, vs. Jack Tucker, amateur; Frank Arleger, pro, vs. Al Sillato, amateur.
- 2:40—George Collins, pro, vs. Carroll Johnston, amateur; George Yalke, pro, vs. Noble Miller, amateur.
- 2:45—George Christ, pro, vs. Bill Chapin, amateur; Bill Nagell, pro, vs. Paul Wosek, amateur.
- 2:50—Frank Comissao, pro, vs. Freddy Allen, amateur; John McGrath, pro, vs. Jim Weldon, amateur.
- 2:55—Matt Collins, pro, vs. Al Rheinwald, amateur; Jimmy McMillan, pro, vs. Bob Callaghan, amateur.
- 3:00—Louis Fitzgerald, pro, vs. Bud Habes, amateur; Russ Farmer, pro, vs. Andy Anderson, amateur.
- 3:05—Ned McKenna, pro, vs. Ed Randall, amateur; Heinle Bishop pro, vs. Brendan McInerney, amateur.

Jean Ramaker and Mrs. W. W. Lyons Reach Semi-finals in Women's Golf

MONROE ACE TURNS BACK MRS. HART

Mrs. Lyons Forced to Go 24 Holes to Beat Janet MacLeod

Buffalo -- (Special Dispatch) -- Rochester placed two of its representatives in the semi-finals of the Women's Golf Association of Western New York championships as a result of some stirring second round play over the Meadowbrook links yesterday.

Miss Jean Ramaker, the 16-year-old Monroe Golf Club champion, and Mrs. Walter W. Lyons of Oak Hill Country Club, forged into the penultimate round, the latter being forced to travel 24 holes in order to make the grade.

Miss Janet MacLeod of the Park Country Club, sister of the young medalist, Betsy, afforded Mrs. Lyons a nip and tuck battle in yesterday's sweltering weather, and both were fairly tuckered at the finish. The Rochester champ was dormant two but Janet battled desperately under pressure and won the 17th and 18th to square the match and send it to extra holes.

After having the next five holes, Mrs. Lyons reached the 24th green nicely with her third, while Janet was just off the edge of the carpet with her third. The latter used a putter from the apron and was short, necessitating two more putts to hole out. On the other hand, Mrs. Lyons ran her approach putt dead and holed for a women's par five to win the hole and the match.

Stymies Aid Jean

Miss Ramaker defeated her home town opponent, Mrs. Charles Hart of Oak Hill, 3 and 1, in gaining her semi-final bracket. Jean continually laid her opponent stymies Mrs. Hart losing no less than four holes through that medium.

Each had an outgoing 44 and they were all even at the turn. After halving the tenth, Jean won the next three holes running and closed out the match on the 17th green. Cards:

Out

Miss Ramaker	554	735	456	—44
Mrs. Hart	565	634	456	—44

In

Miss Ramaker	65	565	64x
Mrs. Hart	665	655	65x

Miss Ramaker will oppose Miss Betsy MacLeod tournament medalist, in the upper bracket of the semi-finals this morning, while Mrs. Lyons takes on Esther Klinck of Cherry Hill. The latter advanced through a 5 and 4 triumph over Will Williams of East Aurora, while Betsy turned back the bid of Mrs. Leo H. Ward of Transit Valley, 3 and 2.

Rochester was assured of a finalist in the beaten eight of the championship flight, as Mrs. Morton Baum of Irondequoit and Mrs. Homer Strong, Country Club of Rochester, come to grips in the upper bracket of that flight this morning.

Miss Weller Wins

Miss Emily Weller of Rochester Country Club won another of the day's feature matches when she defeated Mrs. J. C. Newman Jr., of Meadowbrook, one up, 22 holes, in their lower flight encounter. Emily saved herself elimination on the 19th as well as on the 20th by laying her opponent perfect stymies. After they halved the 21st, Miss Weller dropped a 30 foot putt on the 22d for victory.

Miss Weller will oppose her club-mate, Miss Darcy Macomber, in the beaten eight of the second flight semi-finals this morning. Miss Macomber, likewise, was forced to travel extra holes in defeating Mrs. LeRoy Klopfer of Willowdale on the 20th.

Tucker Shoots Par 72 Round To Lead Golf Sweepstakers

Anderson's Afternoon 72 Coupled with Morning 75 at Brook-Lea

Jack Tucker shot a par-equalling 72 at Locust Hill yesterday morning to lead the district's golf sweepstakes. Three shots back was A. H. (Andy) Anderson of Brook-Lea, with a 75.

At Durand, Bob Wunder had a 75, as did Johnny McGrath, district champ, at Locust Hill. Tucker was out in 38, with one birdie at the third, but came back with two more birdies and a 34. He finished with birds at the 17th and 18th, the latter a par three. His card:

Out 5 5 3 4 5 3 4 5 4—38
In 4 4 4 5 3 4 4 4 2—34—72

Anderson, following his fine 75 in the morning at Brook-Lea, paired with Mrs. Anderson for a mixed foursome event in the afternoon and garnered a 72, his best of the year and one under par. He enjoyed four birdies, three of them coming consecutively at the 15th, 16th and 17th. His card:

Out 4 5 2 5 4 4 5 4 3—36
In 5 5 3 6 4 3 4 3 3—36—72

The Andersons finished second with a net of 167 in the mixed play, Mr. and Mrs. I. Nixon being first with 165.

At Oak Hill, a 77 by W. C. (Young Bill) Chapin was low, while Freddy Allen's 80 paced Country Club of Rochester shooters. Carroll Johnston led at Monroe with a 78. Three tied at Ridgement with 84's—Dick Hughes, Howie Clark and Clarence Vogt. C. Flint's 80 won the golf balls at Midvale.

Cliff Goodrich had a 76 at Durand, one stroke out of the low gross money. Scores:

Country Club Links Draws Civic Groups

The Quadangular matches among four civic clubs in Rochester—with the Ad Club as defending champions—will be played Friday at the Country Club of Rochester.

It was reported in error that Oak Hill would be the scene of play. Other clubs competing are Gyro, Shrine and Rotary.

Weekly Suppers Draw Crowds To Clubs

Comfortable dining rooms, tables under gay umbrellas, and "places for four" beside a sparkling pool offer a wide variety of settings for suppers which are high in favor with club members.

Gathered Thursday evening at Genesee Valley Sports Club for a swim and supper out-of-doors were Mrs. William R. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Kendall B. Castle, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Remington, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Wolcott, Mrs. William H. McElroy, Leon W. Sage, Robert F. Moser, Arthur O. Poole, John Norton, and Mrs. Samuel E. Sheppard. Attending the dinner in the Genesee Valley Club were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Fitch, Mrs. Arthur F. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Vogt, Wilson Hamilton and Perley S. Wilcox.

At the buffet supper at the Country Club of Rochester Thursday night were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Lunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Raines, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. DePuy and F. Dwight Sage.

Among those who attended the Oak Hill Country Club supper were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. Julius E. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin R. Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Sproat, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Druehl, Mr. and Mrs. John Bartholomew, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. May.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Lennox, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Summers, Mrs. George Schlegel and Miss Helen Schlegel, Dr. and Mrs. Austin G. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyman, Dr. and Mrs. A. Lawrence Parlow, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brownell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Elwood, Mr. and Mrs. David P. Bodell and Dr. and Mrs. James E. Wright.

Shrine Golfers Rout Civic Club Rivals with 83 Points, Ad Club Second

YAWGER'S 76 LEADS FIELD IN SHELLING

Blanchard's 8 Points Cook Gyro Goose— Rotary Fourth

Captain Otis A. Barber and his Shrine sharpshooters—paced by the superb work of Foster Yawger of Monroe, who shot a sparkling 76—swept to overwhelming victory in the 10th annual Quadrangular Match for the civic clubs' championship, played yesterday at the Country Club of Rochester.

The winners virtually spread-eagled the field, taking a one-year title not only to The Democrat and Chronicle Trophy, but likewise to The Sagamore Hotel award. The Barber-ians registered 83 points of a possible 108.

Far back in the ruck, but still in second place (by a thin half-point), came the defending champions of the Rochester Ad Club, with 52 counters. Right on the heels of the Ad Clubbers were the challenging Gyro clansmen, while the Rotarians finished fourth. Team match-play totals:

Shrine	83
Ad Club	52
Gyro	51½
Rotary	29½

In the team net-score competition for The Sagamore trophy, the Shriners again set the pace, although here the competition was much keener, with all four teams well bunched. Team net-score totals:

In the team net-score competition for The Sagamore trophy, the Shriners again set the pace, although here the competition was much keener, with all four teams well bunched. Team net-score totals:

	Gross Hand.	Net
Shrine	1013	98-915
Rotary	1094	161-933
Ad Club	1071	134-937
Gyro	1085	144-941

Super-luminarie in the sparkling Shrine contingent was Yawger, who set the pace for the entire field of 48 contestants. C. G. (Duke) Fegan, of Brook-Lea, who had a 78, and Art Pammenter of Oak Hill, with 79, also stood out. None of the men on the other teams was able to break 80.

In achieving his mark as medalist, Yawger was seven strokes over par, with birdies on the eighth and eleventh holes. A spectacular finish was achieved by F. W. (Fud) Cowing, of the Ad Club, who, out in 47, finished with three consecutive 3's, birdieing the seventeenth and eighteenth, to come home in 37.

Most dramatic moment of the afternoon came with eleven four-somes in, and the last quartet nearing the eighteenth green. At that juncture, the Gyros were leading the Ad Clubbers for second place by six and one-half points. The twelfth and final Ad Club player, L. R. Blanchard, brought home eight out of a possible nine points, while his Gyro squad-mate could boast but one, and thus Blanchard pushed his team ahead by half a point.

Potent point-winners for the various teams were:

Shrine: Ernie Maurer, 9; Foster Yawger, 9; Art Pammenter, 8½; Dr. Bruce Large, 8½; Harlow Webber, 8½; L. A. Griffing, 7.

Ad Club: Fay Blanchard, 8; Tom Lant, 7½; Lee Morshelmer, 6½; Phil VanDeventer, 6; John Wegman, 6.

Gyro: Barney Short, 9; Fred Roberts, 8½; Dr. Davis B. Doron, 7; Gay Levis, 6½; Frank Dana, 6.

Rotary: George Whedon, 8; Bob Brownell, 5.

Simultaneously with the struggle for Nassau points, all of the 48 players were competing against their own team-mates for gross and net prizes. The prize-winners:

Shrine

Low gross, Foster Yawger, 76; low net, "Duke" Egan, 78-8-70; second net, Art Pammenter, 79-7-72; third net, Harlow Webber, 81-9-72; fourth net, Nelson Rogers, 82-6-76; fifth net, Otis A. Barber, 90-14-76; sixth net, Ernie Maurer, 80-3-77; seventh net, L. A. Griffing, 91-14-77.

Ad Club

Low gross, Tom Lunt, 84; low net, L. R. Blanchard, 89-16-73; second net, John Wegman, 86-12-74; third net, Fud Cowing, 84-9-75; fourth net, William G. Easton, 86-9-77; fifth net, Pete McCrae, 86-8-78; sixth net, Phil Van Deventer, 90-11-79.

Gyro

Low gross, Dr. Davis B. Doron, 81; low net, Barney Short, 83-16-87; second net, Frank Dana, 81-8-73; third net, Eddie Hammele, 86-13-73; fourth net, Gay Levis, 88-10-78; fifth net, Ray Brewer, 91-13-78; sixth net, Fred Roberts, 92-13-79.

Aside to Ontario, N. Y., firemen: Many thanx for golf card.

Midvale Country Club will travel to Meadowbrook in Buffalo tomorrow for the second of the two clubs' home-and-home matches. Chairman Roy Vance expects to field a good-sized aggregation.

To cure Syracusans of the idea (the very idea!) that Rochester golfers are not in the same league with them, Harry Harman is at his annual chore of getting together a strong local team for the Syracuse Yacht and Country Club invitation tournament.

Rochester Elks will try to prove they are also the Best Golfers on Earth in a big tournament at Locust Hill on Sept. 10. Tony Powderly is in charge, and he is busy on all details. "Prizes and classes for everybody," Mr. Powderly assures.

Harry, who is so popular in the Salt City that the Yacht Club made him an honorary member, will lead his forces on the field in the inter-city team match the day before the qualifying. Syracuse always won so far, and the invitation tourney itself is so exceptionally fast that last summer "Hike" Gouveneur shot a 75 to qualify, only to be notified about 6:20 p. m. that he was in a PLAYOFF!

ROCHESTER DEMOCRAT AND CHRONICLE, MONDAY, AUGUST 12, 1935 17

Midvale Golfers Bow to Meadowbrook; B. McInerney and Allen Card 72's

BISON TEAM WINS, 76-49 AT BUFFALO

O'Donoghue, Tucker Shoots 74's; Vatke Gets 2 Eagles

Meadowbrook Country Club repulsed the invading Midvale golf team of Rochester yesterday, 76 to 47, to make a clean sweep of the two clubs' home-and-home matches. Walter Leight was low for Midvale with an 81 over the long Buffalo course.

In the Rochester district, the season's hottest sweepstakes feats were performed when two young caddies—Kendin McInerney and Feady Allen—negotiated a 72 score at the Country Club of Rochester, and thereby served notice they must be favored in the coming RDTA tournament three weeks from Wednesday.

Their cards:
McInerney, Out 4 4 3 1 1 1 3 1—34
Allen, In 4 3 4 3 1 3 3 3—34
McInerney, In 5 5 4 1 3 6 5 4 0—35 72
Allen, In 1 5 4 3 3 4 1 1 0—35 72

At Oak Hill, Jack O'Donoghue faired the west course in 74, his best score of the year, and dropped low, not also with a 71-5-69 Paul Woodk carded a 73 at the same course.

Jack Tucker, ex-district champ, likewise had a 74 at Lemar Hill. He went out in 40, but played the back nine in a sub-par 34, scoring birdies at ten and eight.

George Vatke, Monroe professional, shot the best golf of the day, a 71, and had a highly unusual card. He had eagles at three and fourteen—both par fives—three-putted the ninth and ran into a five at the par three 16th. A three at the latter would have enabled him to break 70 at the exacting Monroe course.

Pros Tune Games

Charlie McKenna and Frank Krieger, as a mild warning to their amateur opponents in the coming collision Sunday for The Democrat and Chronicle Shield at Oak Hill, were around that course in 73 and 75 respectively, while Godfrey McGarvey treated himself to a 75 at the par 73 Brook-Lea layout.

A father-and-son tournament, staged by Monroe, was won by the team of W. R. Johnston and his son, Carroll, with a net of 149. Mr. Johnston had a 91-21-70, and Carroll an 83-4-79. Second were George Whedon and son, Don, with 153. Other results: L. H. Reed and son, Mort, 154; V. A. Miller, Sr. and Jr., 157, and B. A. Ramaker and son, Jack, 158.

Foster Yawger, still celebrating his 76 in the quadrangular matches at the Country Club, performed a 79 to pace Monroe sweepstakers, while Miss Jean Ramaker had a 90 with birdie 4's at the long ninth and fourteenth and Miss Lulu Ray Johnston a 93 at the Pittsford course.

Club Suppers Continue in Popularity

"Dining out" has become a popular Sunday night event, with excellent buffet suppers to be had in the most attractive of settings at all of Rochester's clubs.

At the Genesee Valley Sports Club, enjoying supper at the tables bordering the edge of the pool, were noted Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. May, Mr. and Mrs. Ranlet Miner, Mr. and Mrs. Rush Clarke, Arthur O. Poole, Gustav Erbe Jr., Joseph Roby Jr., James M. O'Reilly, Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Galbraith, F. Marsden Fox, Mrs. J. DeWitt Butts, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie H. Jackson, Genesee Valley Club members dining at the clubhouse Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Barrows and Alfred M. Mosscrop.

Among those who entertained at the buffet supper at the Country Club of Rochester were Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Woodworth, Mrs. William C. Marry, Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Ford and George A. Carnahan.

Birdies & Bogies

By JACK TUCKER

MR. OSCAR GUILFOIL, whose young daughter is the best woman golfer in Central New York, called from Syracuse last evening to inform that the USGA is getting pretty jealous because the Syracuse Yacht Club invitation tournament next week positively reeks with hot golfers.

A big entry list is anticipated for the one-day tournament of the Rochester District Golf Association Wednesday at the Country Club of Rochester.

Secretary Elmer Thaney, at 173 St. Paul Street, will take your entry, or you can make it at your own club. Jim Weldon, tournament chairman, says it will be an 18-hole medal play event, with gross and net prizes in all handicap classes. Don't miss this one. It'll be just as good as the others, and they exceeded all expectations.

Swimming Exhibition, Varied Programs to Draw Many To Clubs Tonight

WITH the social weekend highlighted by a variety of interesting affairs, Saturday night entertainment should not be difficult to find.

Swimming meets at the Genesee Valley Sports Club are never failing in popularity, and an excellent program of swimming and diving performances has been planned for tonight, to be followed by a buffet supper and dancing.

Miss Elizabeth Kompa, national and metropolitan 220-yard backstroke champion; Miss Erna Kompa, metropolitan 100-yard backstroke champion; Miss Janice Lifson, metropolitan fancy diving champion, and Miss Cornelia Gilssen, junior national fancy diving champion, and Miss Elizabeth Harrison, junior national 440-yard freestyle champion will provide an evening of thrills with their swimming exhibition.

Among those who have made reservations for the event this evening are: Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Eastwood, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bruce Lindsay, Mrs. Frederick F. Church, Mr. and Mrs. Alvah G. Strong, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Griswold, Mrs. Frederick S. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Asa D. McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Leon W. Sage, Mr. and Mrs. John Bartholmew, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Parks and Dr. and Mrs. Warren Wooden.

At the buffet supper at the Country Club of Rochester were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Lunt, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hutchison, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Dumont, Mrs. Alexander M. Lindsay, Herbert J. Winn, Mr. and Mrs. Lyell T. Hallett, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Hamlin and Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Cunningham.

Among those who attended the dinner Wednesday at the Rochester Club were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Porreca, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D'Annunzio, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart A. Maurer, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. May, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Roeser, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Ostrander, Jacob Ark, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Sage and Mr. and Mrs. James P. Sproat.

Cherboneau Shoots 70 In Warmup

Lake Shore Golfer Proves Fitness to Start in D-C Competition

Louis Cherboneau shot a brilliant 70 at Lake Shore yesterday afternoon to lead all district sweepstakers and show he is in shape for The Democrat and Chronicle Shield competition this afternoon between the pros and amateurs at Oak Hill.

Five shots in back of Cherboneau was a clubmate, J. McDevitt, who carded a 75-16-59 for the lowest net score seen in this city in many a day. McDevitt never before had broken 80. Their cards:

Cherboneau
Out—5 4 4 3 4 4 2 4—33
In— 4 4 4 4 5 3 5 4—37—70

McDevitt
Out—4 4 6 6 3 5 5 3 3—39
In— 5 3 4 5 4 2 4 4 5—36—75

Two fine 73's were recorded by Jack Raines Jr., and Jack McInerney Jr., at Oak Hill and the Country Club of Rochester respectively. W. St. John, with 75-10-65 at Oak Hill, and E. Hall Jr., with 83-18-65 at the Country Club were outstanding also.

Jack Tucker shot a 40-36, 76 at Locust Hill, and Andy Anderson carded 77 at Brook-Lea to show that they are ready for the pros this afternoon. Bill Macomber came up with a 77 at the Country Club, and Walter Leight topped Midvale with 78.

C. Zeitler shot a 79 to lead the pack at Monroe, and Dick Hughes was 85 at Ridgmont to be low. Lewis Swift Sr. had 78 at Brook Lea.

So that the amateurs would no steal all the space, Charlie McKenna hit the east course at Oak Hill for a 71, and his fellow pro, Frank Krieger, was four shots higher for a 75. Scores:

H. MARX, 101-20-75.
COUNTRY CLUB—Low gross, J. Mc-
Inerney Jr., 73; E. Hall Jr., 83-18-85;
J. McInerney, 73-3-70; C. Wilcox, 94-24-70;
E. Moore, 88-17-71; W. Boswell, 85-13-72;
W. Macomber, 77-4-73; W. Morse,
84-11-73; D. Sage, 82-7-75.

Youthful Riders Preparing for Junior Show

Country Club Joining Bridle Trails Group
In Sponsoring Event
Scheduled Sept. 21

Eyes of youthful Rochester riders are looking toward the coveted blue ribbons to be awarded in the Monroe Country Junior Horse Show to be held Saturday, Sept. 21, at the Rochester Country Club show ring.

The show is under sponsorship of the Bridle Trails Association and the Country Club of Rochester. Mrs. Alvah G. Strong has offered trophies for a class described as Horsemanship—Registered Girl Scouts and Registered Boy Scouts.

In this class judges may call for any part of the Girl Scout horsemanship test or Boy Scout horsemanship merit badge test.

Mrs. Strong will serve on the general show committee and Mrs. D. K. Hutchens will be chairman of the ring committee.

In charge of the gate will be Lieut. Alfred H. Doud of 121st Cavalry, assisted by Frank Whalen, referee of many of the Rochester Polo Club games. Another show for riders under 18 years of age will be the gymkhana at the closing day of the Rochester Exposition. Maj. John Meston, 121st Cavalry, is general chairman.

Amateurs Upset Pro Golfers In D.C. Shield Play, 37 to 35

Jacobus Here Today At Pro Tournament

With the national head of the PGA—George Jacobus—expected in a spectator's role, Western New York pros will conduct a pro-pro and pro-amateur tournament today at the Country Club of Rochester in a regular one-day event.

The pro-pro is a best-ball affair, and in the p.m. session Country Club amateurs will pair with the pros in another best-ball, the amateurs to use handicaps.

Jacobus will be here with the golf architect—Tillinghast—on a course tour.

Russ Farnen, George Christ's assistant at the Country Club, had his hands full with the veteran Andy Anderson of Brook-Lea, but won two points against Anderson's one on the incoming nine.

Louie Cherboneau, Lake Shore amateur who was a last minute substitution, played as pretty golf as anyone in the entire field in ousting Matt Collins, George's brother. Two bad holes—the 8th and 9th — prevented Cherboneau from landing in the very low 70's.

Jimmy McMillan, young pro from Canandaigua, took 2½ points from Bob Callaghan of Ridgemont, the pair splitting on the outgoing nine.

Victory came to the perspiring and determined amateurs in the closing minutes of the day.

HARMAN HAS HOT 73 CARD

M'Inerney Cards 75 at
C.C. of R. - O'Donoghue
Wins Long Match

Negotiating his best card of the season, a 73, Harry Harman of Oak Hill yesterday paced all district golf sweepstakers. Out in 36 and back in a steady 37, Harry also copped low net with his 74-5-68.

Two blows back came Jack McInerney Jr., Country Club of Rochester player whose game has been especially good of late. His 75 approximates most of his rounds at the Country Club.

Walt Leight returned to form with a 76 at Midvale, and Andy Anderson went around Brook-Lea's rugged layout in 78. Jay Mogge was low at Locust Hill, while Earl Pattison copped the golf balls at Ridgemont with an 81.

Genesee Golf Club ran a two-man best ball, C. J. McCarthy and J. B. Garland winning with a 63. Behind them were A. S. Buckingham-J. P. Carson, 65; E. H. Randall-E. J. Sharkey, 66, and S. Dymond-C. J. McCarthy, 66.

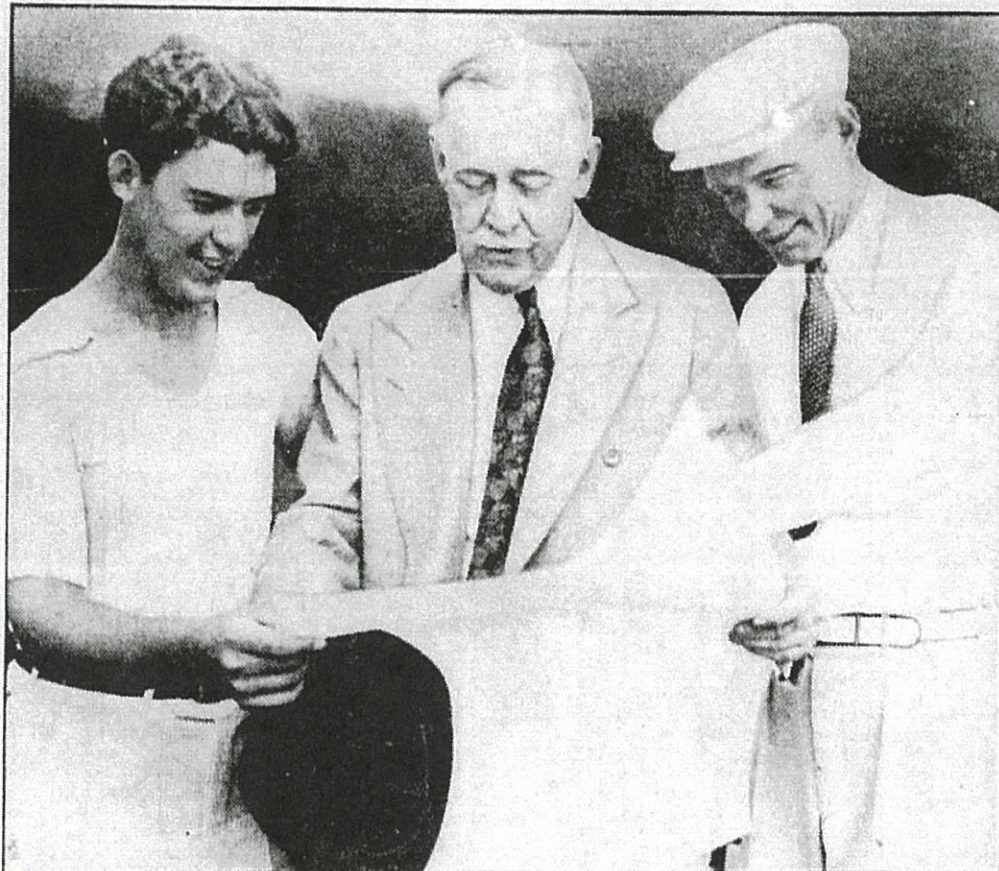

Sunday Suppers Draw Many To Clubs

A warm Sunday evening found numbers of Rochesterians enjoying informal suppers in pleasant club surroundings.

At the Country Club of Rochester were Mr. and Mrs. Marion Craig Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph C. Siebert, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Strong, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Barry, Mrs. Samuel S. E. Sheppard, Mr. and Mrs. John J. McInerney and Alfred M. Moss crop.

FARMEN TIES FOR SECOND

Francis Hodgson Wins Assistant Pro Golf Event

Buffalo — (Special Dispatch)—
Breezing over the back line of his record second round with a subpar 34, Francis Hodgson of the Country Club of Buffalo overhauled the early leaders and captured the Courerex Press Cup, emblematic of the Western New York District
Assistant Professionals' championship, as the embryo Hagens and Sarazens competed in their annual title tournament today at the Transit Valley Country Club.

After using up 80 blows in his morning round, young Hodgson, a former Rochester boy, came through with a splendid 74 in the afternoon for a 36-hole aggregate of 154.

Trailing by a single stroke and locked for second place were Busa
Farmen of the Rochester Country
Club and Leo O'Grady of the Park
Country Club. Leo laced out a 77 in the morning to pace the pack at the halfway mark and then wound up with a 78 in the afternoon. Young Farmen just reversed the order, and his 8-foot putt for a birdie and a tie for the championship missed going down by a single turn of the ball on the home green.

JACK FAILS BY STROKE TO MAKE GRADE

Posts 167 Score

Buffalo — (Special Dispatch) —
Jack Tucker, steady stroking little golfer from the Locust Hill Country Club, Rochester, failed to make one of the eighth qualifying spots for the National Amateur Championship by a single stroke when he wound up with a 36-hole aggregate of 152 yesterday, at Wanakah Country Club.

The Flower City's chances of having a representative in the National Classic, however, remained alive as Tucker was selected third alternate in the event of withdrawals.

Tucker carded a 75 in the morning and appeared safely in only to slip to a 77 in the afternoon when he encountered considerable trouble on the greens, three-putting no less than five.

Chapin Calls It Quits

Young Brendon McInerney of the Rochester Country Club tallied rounds of 79 and 81 respectively for 160. His morning 79 was noteworthy in view of the fact that he used up eight strokes on the par 4 sixteenth when his second shot stuck in the crotch of a tree. He considered jumping up and taking a smack at it with his iron but finally elected to call it unplayable lie.

William C. Chapin of Oak Hill, who had an 81 in the morning, was burning up the course in the afternoon, being under par until he came to the short but tricky fifteenth, where he took exactly eight strokes. That caused him to tear up his card.

Other Rochester entrants scored as follows:

L. L. Cherbonsau of Lake Shore, 8-82—163.

John L. McGrath, Locust Hill, 84-83—167.

John J. McInerney, Rochester Country Club, 85-85—170.

W. B. Macomber, Rochester Country Club, 83—No card.

Hakes, Thompson Tie

Al Hakes of Wanakah and Joe Thompson of Ancaster, Hamilton, Ont., locked for the medal with totals of 147 apiece. Hakes had 73 and 74 on his two rounds, while Thompson tallied 71 and 76.

Other qualifiers were Bob Fisher, Moonbrook, Jamestown, 148; Chris Carr, Wanakah, 149; Howard Tryon, Elmira, 149; Mike Parco, Buffalo Golf Club, 150; Bud Donovan, Winnipeg, Man., 150, and Hank Comstock, Wanakah, 151.

The latter won his place after a three-way play off with Dick Stewart of Meadowbrook and Jack Ahern of Wanakah, Ahern being eliminated on the first hole and Stewart on the second. Consequently, Stewart was named first alternate, Ahern second, and Tucker third.

The best scores for the day were:

Al Hakes, Buffalo	73	74	147
Joe Thompson, Hamilton	71	76	147
Robert Fisher, Jamestown	71	77	148
Howard Tryon, Elmira	75	74	149
Chris Carr, Buffalo	74	75	149
Bud Donovan, Winnipeg	77	73	150
Hank Comstock, Buffalo	80	71	151
Dick Stewart, Buffalo	72	79	151
Jack Ahern, Buffalo	75	76	151
Jack Tucker, Rochester	75	77	152
H. W. Koehn Jr., Buffalo	72	80	152
Charley Eberhardt, Mt. Kisco	74	79	153

Bud Habes Shoots Rain-Soaked Country Club Links in 73 to Win Tourney

OUTSCORES JACOBS BY 2 STROKES

Durand Youth Plays Superb Golf Over Wet Course

By JACK TUCKER

A cool little redhead from Durand, Richard (Bud) Habes, yesterday made his first real bid for district golf attention by romping over a water-soaked Country Club of Rochester course in 73 shots to win the one-day tournament of the Rochester District Golf Association.

Two shots behind was Del Jacobs of Genesee, the leader throughout most of the day until Habes came in late. A heavy, pelting rain that struck about 2.30 sent contestants running for shelter and very nearly caused postponement of the tourney.

The big field scored fairly well, a number of high 70 cards being turned in.

A number of scores were startling. Irving Maeske of Durand went out in 44 and came back in just ten less for a 78; Ray White Jr. of Oak Hill had 43 out and 34 back for 77; F. W. (Fud) Cowing of Oak Hill was 38 out and 51 large strokes coming in, and Kevin McInerney of the home club, who ran in'to a 12 and two 7's going out to collect a 50, come back in 38 with a 7 in it.

Jacobs won low net in Class A with 75-5-70. White was next with 77-6-71, and Lou Schauman of Oak Hill third with 77-5-72. Other prize-winners:

Tom Lunt Low in Class B

Class B low gross, Tom Lunt, 79; nets, R. Woods, Durand, 83-11-72; Howland Clark, Ridgemont, 80-8-72; Bob Harman, Oak Hill, 82-8-74. Class C low gross, Ernest Viegell Jr., Oak Hill, 85; nets, S. Bissell, Durand, 89-16-73; L. B. Swift Jr., 86-13-73; Walker Hall, 88-14-74. Class D low gross, Herb Johnston, Ridgemont, 89; nets, Elmer Schubert, Ridgemont, 97-24-73; J. Skalny, Durand; Fred Springer, Ridgemont, 95-17-78.

Young Habes, a small youth with a crisp swing, played so near faultlessly that not a single six dotted his card.

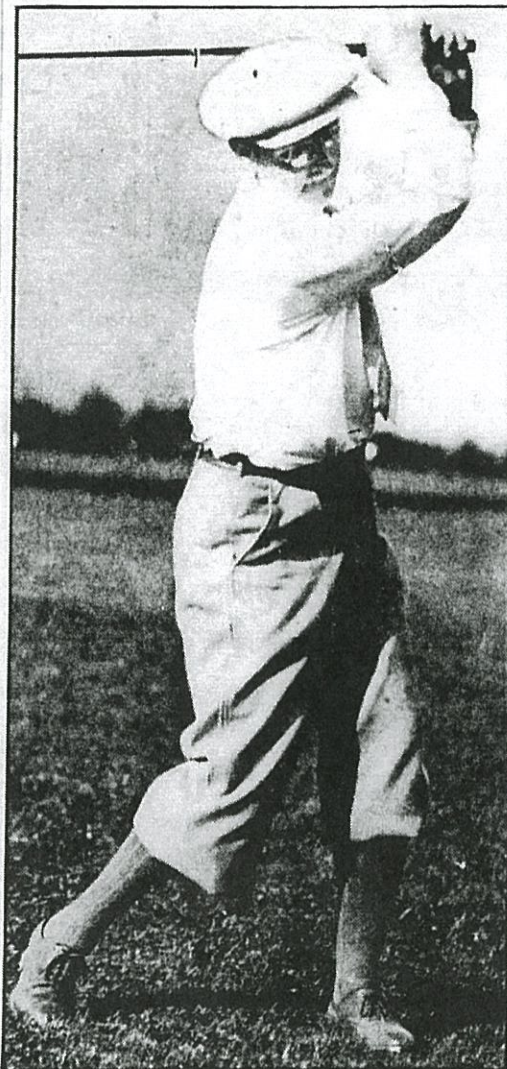

Despite the rain-soaked greens and traps and heavy fairways, the Durand entrant—who was forced to stop at the fourth tee for nearly an hour when the storm broke—was out in 38. He canned a long putt at the short eighth after being trapped, otherwise playing fair golf.

Coming in, his putter began to catch afire. Bud barely missed his birdie three at ten, missed a birdie four at eleven, then slipped for the only time on the second nine on the twelfth. Here his tee shot was pushed, and he hit a weak recovering pitch across a trap.

From there on, knowing he had to beat Jacobs' 75, Bud pounded long, accurate tee shots and was uncanny on the greens. He was on the lengthy 15th, an uphiller which hardly anyone was reaching in two, with a pair of lusty woods, just missing his birdie three.

At the next hole it seemed he might slip when his spade mashie was pushed to the right of the one-shatter. His next shot was short, but he got the ten-foot putt down for a three. Properly encouraged, the next two par 4's were simple matters for him.

Low Net Winner in Tournament

Del Jacobs, of Genesee, yesterday led the net scorers in Class A of the Rochester District Golf Association at the Country Club of Rochester with a card of 75-5-70. He finished second to Bud Habes of Durand in the gross class. Habes shot a 73. with a fine 73.

Maeske Defeats Sillato in Muni Golf, 5 and 4

Al Sillato of Genesee passed out of the running yesterday in the city public links championship at Durand. Sillato fell before the excellent golf of Irving Maeske, 5 and 4.

Maeske, medalist in the national muni qualifier here, is now favored with Richard (Bud) Habes to reach the finals.

Habes yesterday swamped Dempsey O'Connell, 6 and 4, before going over to the Country Club of Rochester to win the one-day RDGA tournament. He meets W. Poppink this morning at 9:20, while Maeske has a tough problem on his hands in Cliff Goodrich. Other results:

W. Poppink defeated E. Proctor, 4 and 2; W. Cory defeated S. D'Amato, 1 up; Jimmy Johnson defeated J. Pilato, 3 and 2; T. Skromak defeated R. Moran, 1 up, 19 holes; C. Goodrich defeated P. Visner, 3 and 2.

The Jack Briddon Jr.-Jack Johnston match was not played due to inability of the two players to arrive at a suitable time. Whether it will be played today or not was not known yesterday.

In other semi-final matches this morning, Cory plays Jim Johnston at 9:25, and Skromak meets the winner of the Briddon-Jack Johnston match. Results in other flights:

Second flight—W. Glavin defeated W. Smith, 1 up; M. Frontuto defeated William Walsh, default; R. Van Horn defeated Alec Johnston, 2 and 1; Art Wren defeated D. Berger, default; Don Charlick defeated W. Ducat, 1 up; Jim Motta defeated M. Blum, 3 and 2; J. Calabria defeated P. Kelly, 2 and 1; O. Kemp defeated C. Carroll, 3 and 2.

Third flight, R. Littman defeated S. O'Loughlin, default; P. Kuchony defeated M. Zambito, 5 and 4; E. Smith won, 5 and 4; W. Hoffman defeated S. McKay, default.

Today's pairings: Beaten eight, first flight—O'Connell vs. Proctor, D'Amato vs. Pliato, Moran vs. loser of Briddon-Johnston, Visner vs. Sillato. Second flight—Galvin vs. Frontuto, Van Horn vs. Wren, Charlick vs. Motta, Calabria vs. Kemp. Beaten eight—Smith vs. Walsh, A. Johnston vs. Berger, Ducat vs. Blum, Kelly vs. Carroll. Third flight, Littman vs. Kuchony, Smith vs. Hoffman.

First Horse Show of Fall Season Gives Promise of Exciting Day For Young Riding Devotees

SMART trots, smooth canters and clean jumps will delight riders and audience alike at the 15th annual horse show of the 121st Cavalry to be given tomorrow afternoon at the Culver Road Armory.

The show will start at 2 p. m. and will be held in the outdoor ring. In case of rain the show will be postponed until next Saturday.

Among those riding either their own horses or mounts from the various riding schools will be Miss Gail Allen, Miss Jane Bancroft, Miss Betty Carlson, Miss Lucia Deutschbein, Miss Jane Gorsline, Miss Shirley Haller, Miss Jean Reed, Miss Barbara Knowlton, Miss Jane Evans, Miss Eleanor J. West, Miss Betty Wisner, Miss Josephine Jewett, Miss Barbara Strong, Miss Dorothy Dege, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Faugh, Donald Lum, James Meisenzahl, James Ryan, Frederick Von Lambeck, M. R. McGregor, Paddy Ryan and Thomas Clements of Avon. The Starsky Farm from Rush will also show horses.

Major John Meston, who has charge of the show, has obtained as judges Col. Donald Armstrong and A. Clymer Austin of Syracuse, both of whom are well known in Rochester and have participated in former shows here.

Maj. William C. Barry will be ringmaster, assisted by Sergt. Clarence F. Bohrer.

This show is the first of four lively Western New York horse shows. All next week the State Fair at Syracuse will be a gathering place for horse lovers and there are a long list of entries.

On Labor Day there will be a show in Avon and Sept. 7, the last day of the Rochester Exposition, a children's gymkhana will be conducted at the Exposition grounds.

The 8 events will be interesting as well as amusing. For riding a horse hand balancing an egg in a spoon are not a simple combination to master, while an obstacle race where one crawls under a tarpaulin, through a barrel, puts on a fancy costume, runs 25 yards to mount a horse and races back to the starting point is as much fun to do as it is to watch.

The final show will be Sept. 21 at the Country Club of Rochester when the Bridle Trails Association will hold an all children's show.

WEBB LOSES AT 16TH HOLE TO BRENDAN

Briddon 2 Under Par For Last 27 Holes; Had Little Sleep

By JACK TUCKER

Jack Briddon Jr., who works in a bakery all night long and hasn't had more than five hours sleep since the tournament started, will play Brendan McInerney of the Country Club of Rochester and Yale in a 36-hole final for the Rochester District Golf Association's junior championship at Lake Shore today.

Young Briddon, last remaining hope of Durand, yesterday climaxed a tournament of surprises by swamping Charles F. (Chubby) McKenna of Oak Hill, 7 and 6, under a mild avalanche of deadly and unbeatable golf.

McInerney, playing not too well, defeated left-handed Harry Webb of Durand, 3 and 2 in the other semi-final. They had been all even at the 12th.

Briddon's spectacular golf yesterday stole the show. For 27 holes he has been two under par, good enough to beat nearly anyone, and McKenna's defeat was surely nothing for Chub to feel badly about.

The Durand player, rubbing the sleep out of his eyes, raced out in a strutting 34.

So uncanny was he that Chubby had to watch a string of eight 4's and one 2. Briddon sank a 30-foot putt at the fourth for a birdie, a two-footer at the short fifth for a deuce, and then completely dismayed McKenna with a terrific 40-footer at the sixth—his third birdie in a row.

Just Misses 33
 Jack might easily have been out in 33 had he not three-patted the short eighth, his only mistake McKenna, acting in extremely gentlemanly fashion, likewise three-patted.

At the turn, Briddon stood six up, a tremendous margin for McKenna to do anything about. Coming in, Briddon ground out steady pars at the tenth and eleventh, winning the tenth to go seven up. He erred for the second time at the twelfth, finding his second in a sand trap and taking a five. Chubbly won this hole, the only one he did win. Briddon then shipped his third shot dead on the dog-leg 13th for a par and ended matters.

Works Nights, Plays Days
 Briddon went to bed yesterday afternoon as soon as possible. He had to report for work at the bakery at 8 o'clock, where he stayed until 9 this morning. His match with McInerney is scheduled for shortly after that. Cards.

Briddon
 Out 1 1 1 2 1 1 4 3-11
 In 4 3 5 4

McKenna
 Out 5 3 1 1 3 3 5 4 5-10
 In 5 3 4 3

Against McInerney, Harry Webb was driving with a spoon and couldn't get enough distance. He made up for this deficiency around the greens but his wasn't good enough to offset the Country Club player's superior golf.

Brendan sank one long putt. Stymied after his second shot at two, he tried to cut the ball over a tree. Instead it hit a branch and dropped on the green some 25 feet from the pin. He thereafter ran down the putt for a par 4 and a win.

Two down at the short eighth, Webb finished 2-3 and took the ninth to make the turn one down. He sank a chip shot at the ninth while McInerney was getting a par 4.

Brendan Ends Match
 It began to look bad for Brendan when Webb won the ninth with a par 4, despite his abruptness off the tee. Harry proceeded to have the 11th with a par 2. McInerney, who is probably more experienced in tournament play than any golfer his years in the Rochester area, then applied steam and won three consecutive holes—all with pars.

McInerney had only to sink a short putt at the short 11th to run out the match, but he missed it. They went to the 12th, which Webb played in a five par 4, but Brendan also got his 4 and the match was over, 3 and 2. Cards.

In the beaten sight of the championship flight, Fred Purchase of Lake Shore defeated "Red" Moran, medalist from Durand, 2 and 1, and Dempsey O'Connell of Genesee defeated Carl Christ of the home club, 2 and 1.

Bob Leva of Locust Hill won the finale of the third flight by downing R. Chamberlain, 2 up, in a close match.

J. Morreale defeated G. Stolljes, 2 and 1, in the second flight, and Nick Comisso of Irondequoit won from Dan Whedon of Monroe, 4 and 2. In the beaten sight of this group, K. Patterson defeated Lewis Swift Jr., of Brook-Lex, 1 up at the 19th, and Bob May of Oak Hill equated Fred Bloom Jr., 4 and 3.

Today's matches, in addition to the championship final between McInerney and Briddon, bracket Purchase and O'Connell, Morreale and Comisso, and Patterson and May. The title match will start last, with the others to get under way about 9 o'clock. Briddon and McInerney will play their second 18 in the afternoon, starting about 5 o'clock.

Clubs Prepare For Labor Day

Fairway and dance floor will vie for the attention of club members celebrating Labor Day.

Holiday dinners, dances, buffet suppers, and golf matches are among the entertainments to be offered tomorrow. A Labor Day dinner will be served at the Genesee Valley Club, and members of the Genesee Valley Sports Club will enjoy a buffet supper.

The Country Club of Rochester will have its regular Labor Day dinner, and at Oak Hill Country Club the occasion will be marked with a dance at the clubhouse. There also will be a special dinner at the Rochester Club, and the University Beach Club, closing its summer season, will have a buffet supper and dance.

Young Riders Slate Show

The self-conscious prancing of thoroughbred horses, the confident control of youthful riders, all the tense excitement of an adult's horse show will thrill spectators at the third annual Monroe County Junior Horse Show Saturday, Sept. 21, at the Country Club of Rochester.

Mrs. Don King Huchens will be ringmaster, assisted by Miss Jane Noonan, Miss Mary McDowell, Miss Betty Strong and George Johnson.

The conversation among the younger members of Rochester society shows an ever-growing interest in this, the last horse show of the season. There is much speculation about the trophies, the classes and the showing of new horses.

The return of those equestrians who have been spending the summer out of town is eagerly awaited, although already a large number of entries is assured.

Trophies have been donated by Mrs. Alvah G. Strong, Mrs. M. R. McGregor, William T. Noonan, Thomas H. Clements and the Davis and Jones Printing Company.

Among the young folks who have indicated their intention of taking part in the show are Miss Betty Carlson, Miss Shirley Rardin, Miss Helento Clark, Miss Wilma Kenning, Miss Jean McDonald, Miss Peggy Kaiser, Miss Betty Wisner, Miss Kathryn Green, Miss Mary Pierce, Bob Leigh, Donald Heberle, William Evans and Bob Carlson.

FAMED HORSES IN RUSH SHOW

Leading horses of Rochester and vicinity have been entered for the show that will be conducted as part of the carnival of Rush Firemen's Association, according to James Gray, horse show chairman.

The carnival will open at 7 p. m. tomorrow with a band concert by Honeoye Falls Military Band. The horse show starts at 2 p. m. Saturday. Assisting Mr. Gray are James Flether, secretary, and Thomas Connors, George Hetzler, Edwin Lindsay, Aden Chaffer and Walter Years. Judges will be Tom Finns and James Greene for saddle horses and John Cahill for hunters and jumpers. Entries have been received from the Country Club of Rochester, Park View Stables, Pine Tree Stables, Ramblewood Stables, Skiff Flemmings, Thomas Clements, John S. Gray and Carl Behnk.

Concessions have been installed for the carnival, and prizes have been provided. A parade in which 25 volunteer fire companies will take part is scheduled for 7 o'clock Saturday night. Several drum corps and bands will take part in it. The carnival will close with a fireworks display. The executive committee includes Harry Fletcher, chairman; Harold Bradstreet, Elwyn Lindsey, James Leary, E. F. Behnk and James Gray.

Country Club Dinner Dance Draws Large Throng

Dinner dance at the Country Club of Rochester last night drew a large number of members. Noted among them were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Moser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winslow Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. B. Hickey, Jeremiah Hickey, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Field, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Rae, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney R. Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Cunningham, Edwin E. Redfer, David B. Jewett Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Slocum Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wels Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. Dean Quinby Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lee Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Frederickson, and Benjamin Steele.

The brothers McInerney—Jack Jr., Brendon and Kevin—have departed for Yale. Brendon had what started out to be only a fairish year, but he accomplished two things: Winning of the district junior championship at Lake Shore and being runnerup to Joe (Modesty Speaks for Itself) Thompson in the Country Club of Rochester invitation.

As for big brother Jack, it might be mentioned in a whisper that on many occasions he was outscoring Brendon.

Adults Crowd Rail as Juniors Have Their Day at Country Club Horse Show

Youthful Riders Draw Approval Of Sidelines

Bridle Trails Society
Sponsor of Event for Adept Group of Young
Rochester Horsemen

THE adjective "brilliant" applied fittingly to three things at the Monroe County Junior Horse Show at the Country Club of Rochester yesterday . . . the sunshine, the new fall outfits and the performance of the youthful riders.

It was a grand day for the Show. The oval was surrounded by cars filled with adults who came to pass judgment on the riding ability of the younger set, as well as crowds of young and old on foot.

Mrs. Barbara Strong took the trophy in Class 1 for children's saddle horses, riding Town Talk, while second place went to M. R. McGregor's entry, The Duke. Miss Mary Ingersoll, riding Kay, took third place.

Miss Doris Green took first honors in the horsemanship class for riders not yet 15 years of age; second place went to Jacqueline Myers; third, to Miss Ingersoll and fourth, to Miss Nancy Strong.

The Jack-O-Lantern race caused much merriment for the spectators and as much discomfort for the young riders who had to race to a table, obtain a pumpkin, take it to a second table, fill it with apples and race back to the first table. The event was run off in sections.

Winners in the three sections were Miss Carlotta Scinta, Miss Ingersoll and Donald Heberle. Another exciting contest was the javeline-throwing event, in which Miss Betty Jane Sundre took first and Miss Virginia Lee, second place.

It was a gaily dressed and enthusiastic crowd that strolled about the oval, pencils and programs in hand.

Miss Jane Allen and John Norton were enjoying the show from the latter's sport roadster, while others watching the performance from their cars were Mr. and Mrs. Evershed Meyers, Mrs. Lester Reed with her sons, Philip and Mortimer, Ted Wareham, and Roland Will Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sanderson were noted in their car, while among those strolling about the ring were William T. Noonan and his daughters, Loretto and Jane, Mrs. Thomas Lee, Mrs. Homer Strong and John Woodbury.

Miss Josephine Jewett and Miss Jean Reed watched from the former's car. Noted at the gate were Raymond Bantel, John Hill Kotchen, H. Dean Quinby and Edward Harris. Others noted strolling about the ring was Miss Virginia Durand, Miss Jeanne Watson, Miss Caroline Lindsay, Miss Polly Newell, Miss Marion Beach, Robert Amsden, Miss Aileen Shaw, Alden Herrick, Robert Wilcox, the Misses Betty and Jean Hatch and Miss Katherine Jenkins.

Mrs. Alto Weaver, Cortland, and Robert F. Jones, Pittsford, were judges of the show which was under the auspices of the Country Lanes and Bridle Trails Association of Monroe County.

Carnival Spirit Pervades Tea

Color and spirit of a carnival will feature the Intersociety Tea at Mechanics Institute to be held tomorrow night in the living room of the Beaver Building at 7:30.

All the entertainment will be in miniature. Side shows will be small booths which have games modeled in miniature forms.

This tea is given to introduce the freshmen and non-society upperclassmen to the societies at the Institute. These societies are Delta Omicron, Alpha Psi, Phi, Upsilon Phi and Sigma Sigma.

Miss Elizabeth Thatcher, president of the Intersociety Council, is the general chairman of the tea and chairman of her committee. Miss Louise Ames, hospitality and invitations; Miss Ellen Parsons, decorations; Miss Evelyn Tebbin, entertainment, and Miss Mary Alice Gage, refreshments.

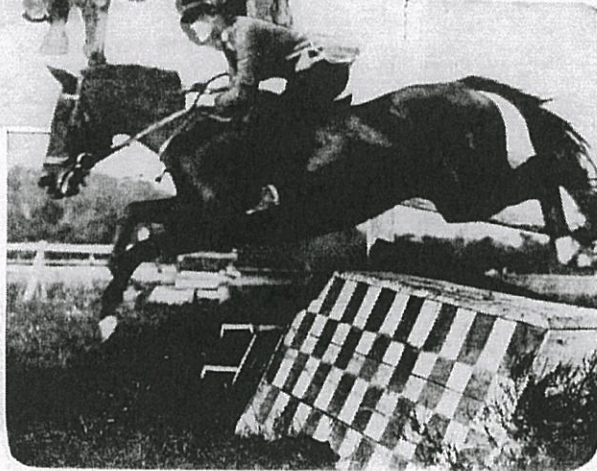

Ad Club to Hear Talk on Italy

Miss Adeline Zacher, lecturer and librarian, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of the Women's Ad Club Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in Columbus Civic Center.

Miss Zacher's topic will be "Black Shirts in Italy." With war clouds over Europe and with Italy so deeply involved the program her discussion is of pertinence today.

Miss Zacher was rank secretary of the World Peace Foundation and in that capacity attended the 10th Assembly of the League of Nations. Since then she has traveled extensively in Europe and has followed the European situation closely.

Women's Qualifier At C. C. of R. Today

Country Club of Rochester women will start their qualifying round today for the annual club championship. Eighteen holes will be played, match play to follow.

Among favorites are Mrs. Homer Strong, Mrs. D. B. Macomber and Miss Helen Little.

Birdies & Bogies

By JACK TUCKER

SPECIAL for today: Clarence Doser misses one-foot putt in yesterday's pro-pro tournament at Ridgemont! The tragedy occurred at the 11th hole, a strenuous uphill affair with a par of five. Mr. Doser's partner, Mr. Feller, stared and stared and, after five minutes, decided to believe what he had seen. Uncle George Christ was appalled when notified.

Miss Helen Little led the qualifying yesterday with a fine 91 in the Country Club of Rochester's annual club championship qualifier. She was out in 45, back in 46. First round matches must be played on or before Thursday, and the tournament completed by Monday. Pairings:

Championship flight — Miss Helen Little vs. Miss Emily Weller, Mrs. Leon W. Sage vs. Mrs. Homer Strong, Miss Darcey Macomber vs. Mrs. Elliott Fitch,

Mrs. M. C. Barry vs. Mrs. D. B.
Macomber.

First flight—Mrs. C. W. Smith vs. Mrs. A. Stuber, Mrs. T. C.
Briggs vs. Mrs. D. Frederickson,
Mrs. W. J. Curtis vs. E. H. Cumpston, Miss Harriet Morgan vs.
Mrs. Oscar Solbert.

Ryder Cup Golf Rivals Ready for Weekend Tilts

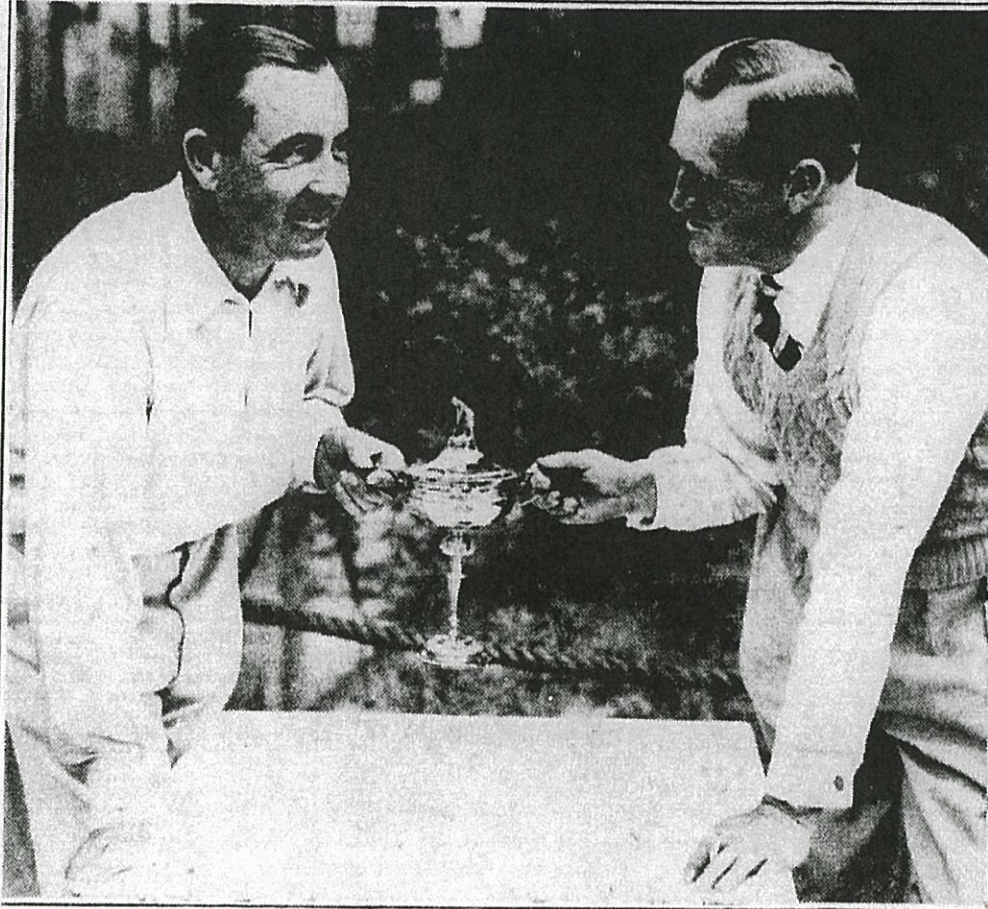

Here are outstanding members of British and United States teams as they prepared for the Inter-nation Ryder Cup matches at Ridgewood, N. J. tomorrow and Sunday. Left to right are Walter Hagen, captain of the American team; Sam Parks, U. S. National Open champion; Alf Perry, British Open champion, and Charles Whitcombe, captain of the British team. The Britons are confident of victory in the matches.

Non-sweepstakes activity saw Miss Helen Little defeat Mrs. Homer Strong, 2 and 1, in a semi-final match of the Country Club of Rochester's annual women's championship. Miss Little will meet the winner of the Mrs. D. B. Macomber-Miss Darcey Macomber match which will be played today. In the first fight, Mrs. R. E. Frederickson defeated Mrs.

Ryder Cup Captains with Famed Trophy of Links

American pros got the jump on their British rivals yesterday at Ridgewood, N. J., as U. S. team captained by Walter Hagen, left, squashed invaders led by Capt. Charles Whitcombe, right. Hagen's forces swept three of yesterday's four Scotch foursome-matches, Walter himself teaming brilliantly with Gene Sarazen. America has won two matches, Great Britain two, to date. It'll all be decided after today's singles.

The defending champion, Miss Helen Little, lost her Country Club of Rochester championship yesterday to Mrs. D. B. Macomber, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Macomber had a 91, which including a seven at the 17th, Miss Little approximated 96. In the first flight finals, Mrs. R. E. Frederickson defeated Mrs. Oscar Solbert, 5 and 4.

Women of Golf Association Hold Final Get-Together of Season At Rochester Country Club

THE weather obligingly turned warm and in spite of a strong west wind that blew golf balls off the course, members of the Women's Golf Association met at the links of The Country Club of Rochester for the final get-together of the season yesterday morning.

Small hats and scarfs were in order as the wind swept over the open fields and even the most calculating eye had difficulty in judging just how much distance to allow for "drift."

All the golf clubs had representatives out and the rain shower at 1:30 o'clock found several still on the course.

From the Country Club of Rochester were Miss Eva Howe and Mrs. Adolph Stuber from Oak Hill Country Club, Mrs. William F. Stanton and Mrs. George B. Hart. Monroe Golf Club, Mrs. Samuel P. Connor Jr., Mrs. Ralph D. Bickford, Mrs. Benjamin A. Ramaker, Mrs. Vincent S. Bennett and Mrs. George B. Taylor. Brook-Lea Country Club; Mrs. John P. Street Jr., Mrs. T. V. Smith and Mrs. Carl A. Rae's Ace at Country Club Features Golf Sweepstakes

Ward Gets 77 at Oak Hill As Five Others Break 80 in Chill Wind

Football weather failed to prevent a hole in one yesterday as Rochester district golfers continued sweepstakes play. The ace fell to a number four iron wielded by J. H. Rae of the Country Club of Rochester at its 8th hole, 178 yards long.

Playing spectators at the feat were Bob Reilly, ex-secretary of the Rochester District Golf Association; L. E. Fitch and H. P. Hamlin.

Six reported scores under 80 were made, Dudley Ward's 77 at Oak Hill being the best. At the same club, Matt Lynch and W. C. (Young Bill) Chapin carded 78's.

Frank Leurgans shot a 79 over Brook-Lea's par 73 layout, and Tom Lunt was 78 at Lake Shore. Walter Leight led at Midvale with a 79. Other low gross winners were H. Shirey with 82 at Monroe, and Harry Crittenden and H. P. Hamlin with 84's at the Country Club.

COUNTRY CLUB—Low gross, H. L. Crittenden and H. P. Hamlin, 84; low net, L. C. Forgie, 88-14—74; Dr. R. R. Fitch, 89-14—75; H. P. Hamlin, 84-8—76; J. J. McInerney Sr., 91-14—77; A. G. Devine, 92-14—78; L. T. Hallett, 91-13—78; E. B. Davis, 87-9—78. Fall tournament pairings—First flight: H. P. Hamlin vs. A. G. Devine, B. C. Little vs. L. C. Forgie, D. B. Macomber vs. Homer Strong, J. M. Ward vs. W. B. Macomber, E. B. Davis vs. F. E. Gannett, W. L. Farley vs. J. J. McInerney Sr., Dr. R. R. Fitch vs. R. E. Frederickson, E. B. Hall Jr. vs. H. L. Links Presidency To Mrs. Vandever

Buffalo Women Named As Successor for Mrs. Robinson

Succeeding Mrs. Clarence Robinson of Country Club of Rochester, Mrs. T. W. Vandever of the Park Club, Williamsville, was elected president of the Women's Golf Association of Western New York following a luncheon at the Country Club here yesterday. The office is for two years.

Mrs. Robinson had served her two-year term. Other officers:

First vicepresident, Mrs. Harry Elwood, Park Club; second vice-president, Mrs. Vincent Bennett, Oak Hill, Rochester; secretary, Mrs. James Newman, Meadowbrook; assistant secretary, Mrs. Leo Ward, Transit Valley; treasurer, Mrs. W. F. Chapin, Buffalo Country Club; assistant treasurer, Miss Esther Klinck, Cherry Hill.

All officers elected yesterday are new. No further business was discussed, according to Mrs. Robinson.

Clubs to Attract Holiday Diners

With family Thanksgiving dinners all during the day, with luncheons and dinners tomorrow and dances Saturday not to mention buffet suppers Sunday, Rochester clubs are preparing for a busy weekend.

For those with temperamental cooks, for those who find themselves with 16 instead of six guests at a family dinner, the clubs offer a happy solution of culinary and social difficulties.

The Country Club of Rochester always has been a favorite rendezvous for families and today will find large and small dinner parties collecting around flower-decked tables on the large enclosed porch.

Entertaining there during the day will be Mr. and Mrs. J. How-

MONROE WINS INITIAL SHOOT

Monroe Golf Club members proved too good at the targets yesterday morning for four other Rochester golf club delegations, the Pittsford sharpshooters running up a 175-score to cop the opening inter-club shoot on their own grounds.

Country Club of Rochester finished second with 168, and Brook-Lea, Oak Hill and Locust Hill followed in order.

Despite frigid weather the golfers turned out in good numbers for the first of a series of shoots. Brook-Lea will be host club a week from next Sunday.

Monroe's five best shots were Vic Miller, Bill Lozier, Dr. Hopkins, Dr. Carver and Foster Yawger.

D. B. Macomber of the Country Club led individual scoring with 19-21, 40. A club-mate, Jack Kitchen, and Vic Miller of Monroe were tied for second at 38. Summary:

MONROE (175)—Yawger 14-21, 35; Lozier 14-12, 26; Palmateer 14-20, 34; Miller 18-20, 38; Ager 18-16, 34; Spencer 12-14, 26; McChesney 11-16, 27; Hopkins 14-18, 32; Carver 15-19, 34.

COUNTRY CLUB (168)—Kitchen 19-19, 38; D. Macomber 19-21, 40; Cunningham 14-17, 31; Dryer 16-19, 35; Hallett 9-15, 24.

BROOK-LEA (166)—Gillespie 19-15, 34; Kolthou 16-25, 36; D. Clark Sr., 11-17, 28; D. Clark Jr., 15-16, 31; Cruickshank 16-21, 37.

Society Turns Out in Force for Winter Sport Thrills

Rinks and Slides Now Luring Young, Old

Snow and ice and everything nice—that's what winter is made of.

Rochester society, young and old, does not sit by the fire these blustery windy days. Not at all. In between debutante teas and dances they bundle up, tuck their skates under arm and go out for exercise associated with smartest winter resorts.

Alps to slide down are lacking near Rochester but there are any number of steep hills for tobogganing and skiing. Durand Eastman Park alone provides enough thrills in this sport to last out the winter and the new slide at Ellison Park has been so popular that one should take a camp chair and a stove and prepare to spend the best part of the day waiting for a "turn."

At the Country Club of Rochester, hockey holds the limelight. The amateur and professional hockey games at Edgerton Park have added impetus to that popular sport and fathers and sons turn out regularly for a stimulating game.

Among the younger hockey enthusiasts are Hugh and Bobby Cumming, whose mother is one of Rochester's expert skaters, Bill Lee, who is home from Exeter for the holidays, Allan Macomber, Brendan and Jack McInerney and Jack Castle. Among the men are Wendell Curtis Jr., Edward Curtis, Tad Newell, Warren Williams and Dr. Robert Galbriath.

And when the hockey players are not in possession of the Country Club rink the fancy skaters come out for a few intricate figures and a little tricky embroidery on the sparkling ice.

Miss Louise Devine is possibly the best women skater in Rochester when it comes to a truly artistic performance but Mrs. Oscar N. Solbert does some graceful and fascinating turns, and John J. McInerney Sr. is a past master at those sweeping curves and lightning whirls.

Mrs. Robert G. Hoffman is as adept on skates as her husband is at the controls of a plane and finds no figure too complicated to execute with ease. Miss Lillian Utz is another skating enthusiast and Ned Williams has all sorts of novel turns and twists, the envy of those who are just beginning to feel the lure of the fancy skating.

The smaller members of society choose the garden slide as their first step in the world of winter sports and all over town the "gangs" gather.

Berkeley Street youngsters find fun at the slide between the Hendersons' and the Raes' homes. Out in Park Avenue the Kidd's toboggan is a meeting place for all the five and six-year olds.

In Arnold Park the children bring their sleds to the Lunt's big slide as soon as school closes. In vacation time the waiting line forms at the corner with Prescott and Jimmy Lunt general directors.
